$1 million in funds freed

State panel OKs plans for Maryville School

by LINDA PUNCH

Plans for the new Maryville School were approved by the Illinois Capital Development Board, freeing $1 million in state funds for construction of the building.

Fred Knocke, ICDB official in charge of the Maryville project, said the board gave final approval after reviewing architects' drawings at a meeting last week. He said the project should be out for bid within two weeks.

He said construction probably could begin by the second week of December, with completion in 18 to 24 months.

HOWEVER, James Retzlaff, principal of River Road School. said the district still is shooting for completion of the school by fall of 1975.

"We hope to break ground this winter but it's still a little chancy," he said. "It was just nice getting past the 100 per cent review of the plans."

Retzlaff said school officials hope the bids "come in within the money we have to work with — that's going to be the next waiting point.

"We figure the cost of construction goes up at least 1 per cent each month. We're going to be handicapped by the funds — it's really going to be a bare bones building," he said.

The new school will serve students from Maryville Academy, Des Plaines. Those students now attend River Road School. River Road must be replaced because it does not meet state safety codes.

THE SCHOOL will be on a five-acre site on the Maryville grounds, Gregory Street and River Road. According to preliminary designs, the school will be a 30,000 square foot. one-story building, basically rectangular in shape.

A law allowing for construction of the school facility was signed by former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in 1972. Under the law, a school district can request funds for a school building when a nonpublic school closes, resulting in an increased enrollment of 5 per cent or more to the school district.

Such a situation occurred in River Trails Dist. 26 in 1968 when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to educate Maryville students, who are wards of the state.

Construction of the school was delayed several times over the last two years because school officials were unable to agree on a site.

Charge made at second debate

Young has been 'puppet' for oil industry: Mikva

by STEVE BROWN

Rep. Samuel H. Young

Abner J. Mikva charged Sunday that U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, has been a puppet for the oil industry by supporting programs that enable the industry to maintain its high profits in the continuing energy crisis.

Young suggested that a little prayer might be a way to help solve some of the rising food costs problems facing the nation.

So went the second part of a three-week series of debates between Mikva and Young who are battling each other for Young's Congressional seat.

Abner J. Mikva

MORE THAN 400 persons listened to the pair for nearly two hours at Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines.

The sharp differences between the two candidates were spelled out again.

Mikva charged Young supported legislation that would continue to give the oil companies favored treatment while they were complaining of short gasoline supplies.

"Standard Oil expects more from their Congressmen and they get it from Congressman Young," Mikva said.

Young, however, said he voted in favor of the emergency energy act even though it had several poorly written provisions. He noted the law was vetoed by the President.

THE CONGRESSMAN ALSO suggested that a little prayer might do more to bring down food prices than all the talking of politicians in Washington.

"I have voted against the subsidy program," Young added.

Mikva responded that "sometimes the Lord wants us to help ourselves."

Mikva also called for a number of reforms within the government which would enhance competition and end restrictive regulations which he said cause food prices to increase.

The candidates disagreed on military expenditure. Mikva said $15 billion could be cut from the budget. Young said defense already has been cut and that he would favor troop reductions if bilateral agreements could be worked out with the Soviet Union.

BOTH MEN said they opposed President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent tax surcharge proposal. They also said they believe the Equal Rights Amendment should be adopted by the states.

They both advocated ethics legislation, with Mikva stating he favored complete financial disclosures of all income and campaign contributions.

Young also said he would favor reintroduction of the draft as a means of cutting military expenditures. He said the new draft would allow people to choose some alternative service, but would also help cutback the large expenditures that are now being made for the all-volunteer Army.

Mikva said he opposed such a move and mentioned that while Young had stated he was opposed to big government, he was favoring a policy which would allow government to tell people what to do for two years of their lives.

"To me this is the biggest type of government you can have," Mikva said.

Trinkets urged instead of treats

Announcing "Operation Trick or Toys!" the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines has declared war on all bad Halloween goblins.

To protect children against sick minds who put razor blades in apples and LSD in candy, the club's Public Affairs commmittee is urging area residents to think "trinkets" instead of "treats" for Halloween — dime store toys, trading cards, pennies, balloons, cheap plastic animals, toy soldiers, special pencils and erasers.

A survey of area children finds them receptive to the idea of small toys that last far beyond Halloween. Time and money spent on candy and homemade cookies are wasted when many parents throw away treats rather than take a chance on their child's safety.

Trinkets do not have to be expensive. A large bag of plastic toy soldiers can be cheaper than candy. Merchants can help by stocking such items. Inexpensive small toys are also available through companies that service school fun fairs.

Des Plaines residents are urged to start looking for nonedible treats now and greet "trick or treaters" on Oct. 31 with something different — and safe.

City plans to crack down on illegal political posters

Poster pushers beware, Des Plaines officials announced Friday they have a sharp eye out for you.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel announced the city will strictly enforce its ordinance concerning the placing of campaign posters on public property.

The mayor said he would see to it that the city's police officers are alerted to be on the lookout for persons putting political posters up around town.

Behrel said city workers have been taking down posters for many candidates because they violate the city ordinance.

He noted that some of the campaign material was affixed to posts so firmly that paint was pulled off when the posters were taken down.

"Now we have to repaint the posts in addition to spending the money to take down the posters," he said.

THE MAYOR said he plans to write to all major campaign offices in the area reminding candidates of the regulations.

"I doubt that we could cite the candidates themselves because they would probably deny their workers put up the posters illegally," Behrel said.

Fines for violation of the city ordinance range up to $500.

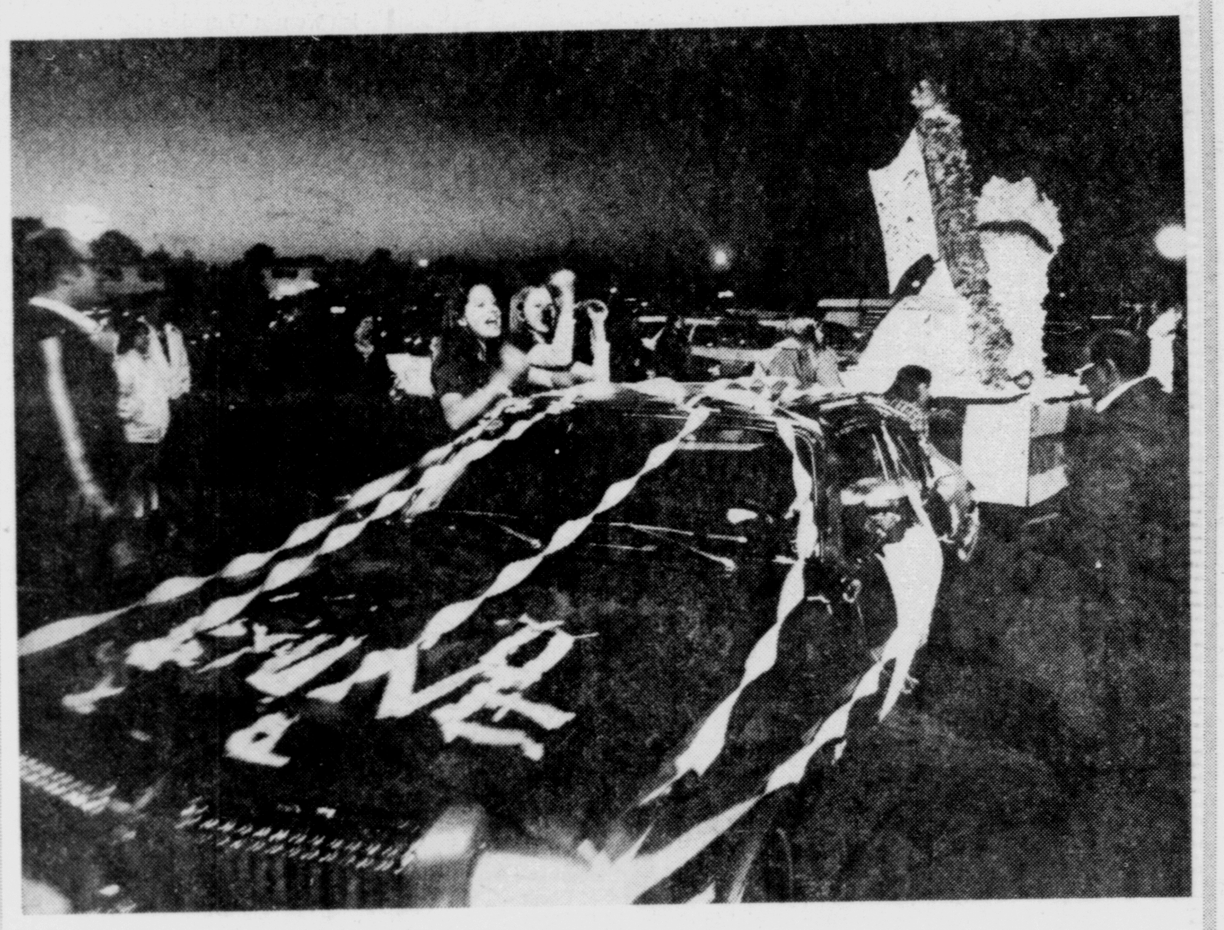

The ordinance states it is illegal to post notices on any curbstone, flagstone, sidewalk, tree, lamp post, telegraph pole, fire hydrant, any private wall or gate.

The law does not prohibit official election judges from posting notices of election in public areas.

"We are not going to play any favorites here, this will apply to everyone," the mayor said.

Homecoming activities like floatmaking and parades regain popularity.

It's homecoming!

Who said that school spirit is dead? Northwest suburban students find it's 'in' to get involved

Flowers and formal dresses make their way back.

by DOROTHY OLIVER

The pendulum is swinging back.

The kids of the '70s are looking more like the kids of the '50s every day. They may be more aware than their counterparts of 20 years ago, more sophisticated, more informed — but they are reviving some of the things nostalgia is made of.

The sockhops, pep rallies, wearing school colors, decorating the halls, backing the team, school spirit . . . it's happening again.

Homecoming season puts the rise of school spirit in focus. Throughout the Northwest suburbs young people are deciding it's "all right," "in," "up front" to cheer the home team to victory, to dress crazy for spirit day, to wear a button, enter an arm wrestling contest, scream yourself hoarse at a pep rally.

IT'S NOT HAPPENING in every school with every student but take a look at the hundreds who come out for the prehomecoming bonfire at Elk Grove High School. Seated in the stands are not only parents and students but a collection of alumni and village officials.

Take a look at the hundreds of students staying after school to decorate the halls of Hersey High School to get the student body "in the mood" for the big game.

Take a look at the 20 seniors in red army helmets sitting in the bleachers at Schaumburg High School. They call themselves "Fergie's Army," after football coach Bob Ferguson, and have an exclusive membership of male upperclassmen. They've also gotten spirit rolling at the young high school.

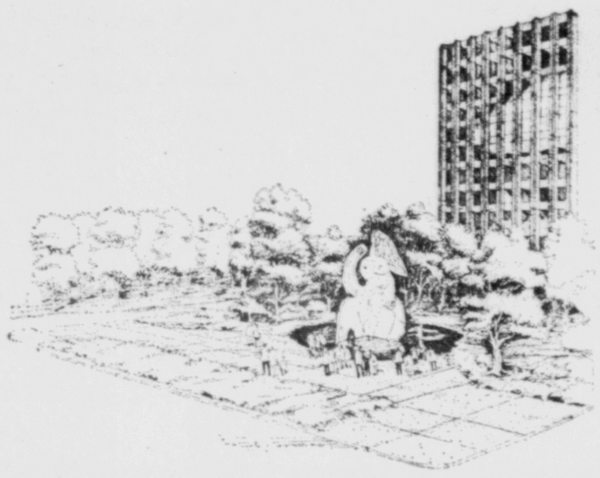

TAKE A LOOK at the Prospect High School kids working in the cold putting together floats for the homecoming parade. Or the numbers wearing black, gold and silver clothes at Forest View High School on "Colors Day."

Students are the ones pushing for more involvement. A new pep club has been formed at Schaumburg; at Hersey this year will be the first for a "powder puff" or all-girl football game and floats — both at the student's request.

One sophomore girl, who in past years would have been labeled a freak, looked at her school and said,

'Bather' to make splash this week

Construction will begin this week on "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso artwork to be molded in concrete at the Gould Center in Rolling Meadows. Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar will supervise construction of the 30-foot statute depicting a nude woman sunbathing. The public will be able to view progress during the 2½-month construction period and a guide will be on hand to explain the artist's procedures.

Kiwanis keeps woman member

The Elk Grove Kiwanis has decided to defy an order by Kiwanis International that the club oust its lone woman member. At a closed meeting Saturday, club members voted to retain Mary Clark, head librarian of the Elk Grove Public Library, as a regular member. The next move, said Richard Harrell, local Kiwanis president, probably will be up to Kiwanis International.

Maryville School plans OKd

Plans for the new Maryville School were approved by the Illinois Capital Development Board, freeing $1 million in state funds focr construction of the building. "The timetable is unpredictable, but we hope to take bids by the end of December," said Fred Knocke, state official in charge of the Maryville project. The school will serve Maryville students who now attend the obsolete River Road school on the academy grounds.

Officials junket to cost $3,800

Rolling Meadows taxpayers will foot the bill for 14 city officials, most accompanied by their spouses, to attend the four-day Illinois Municipal League annual conference in Chicago. The $3,800 appropriated by the city council includes overnight expenses at a downtown Chicago hotel for most of the delegates. Des Plaines, meanwhile, is spending $2,050 to send 46 officials and employes to the conference; Palatine, $90 for two delegates; and Arlington Heights, $45 for one delegate.

Ethics law on way in Palatine

Ethics legislation requiring income disclosure is being prepared for elected and appointed village officials in Palatine. It may also cover firms that sell $1,000 or more in goods or services to the village each year. "Financial disclosure, although not a total solution to the concern of integrity in government, is a tool for minimizing conflicts-of-interest problems faced by public officials, office holders, employes in sensitive areas and possibly even vendors doing business with the city," said Trustee Philip E. Stern, who heads a group preparing the ethics ordinance.

More firemen for village?

Mount Prospect may have to hire seven more firemen because of the new federal Fair Labor Standards Act. The law, which takes effect Jan. 1, 1975, requires overtime pay for firemen who work more than 60 hours a week or more than 240 hours within a 28-day period. The hiring would provide seven full-time firemen for the village fire prevention bureau and head off expected overtime expenses for operating the bureau.

'More safety features needed'

School bus-safety laws unsatisfactory: Sen. Glass

by LINDA PUNCH

State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, said he is dissatisfied with current school bus safety laws despite legislation passed during the last session of the Illinois General Assembly.

Glass, who wrote two bills strengthening school bus safety laws, spoke at a meeting of the National Council of Jewish Women Thursday night.

The bills, signed by Gov. Daniel Walker this fall, broaden the classification of school buses to include vehicles serving private and parochial schools. The legislation also calls for state-supervised driver and pupil school bus safety education programs.

GLASS SAID that "no sooner was the bill signed into law" than he was told about an accident involving a day-camp bus apparently not covered by the legislation. He said the law applies only to vehicles carrying children to and from schools.

"The question right now is what about buses owned by churches or day camps — it's an area where we may have to add to the definition," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, they should be covered."

Glass also cited the need for more safety features on school buses including padding of seat backs and seatbelts for students.

"We heard a lot of testimony from surgeons about the dangers to the face and mouth when a child is thrown forward against the metal seat," he said.

Sen. Bradley Glass

"I would like to see a fund established to reimburse bus companies with state money for padding the seat backs."

ESTIMATED COSTS for seat padding range from $320 to $400 per bus, Glass added.

"Another safety device — which is somewhat controversial — is student seat belts. Personally, I think they would be helpful," he said.

A major objection to adding safety equipment to buses is the cost involved, Glass said. "My response is the price paid can't be measured in dollars and cents if you don't have safe buses."

At the meeting, one woman suggested that parents of bus riders pay an extra $5 a year to cover the costs of safety belts and seat padding. Fred Goering, director of transportation for Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, said the ideas are "hypothetically great but you're not going to have any luck with parents." Dist. 54 recently approved expenditures up to $18,000 for padding seats on 43 buses.

GLASS SAID testimony before a state commission indicated that school bus construction is inferior to construction of commercial buses. He added "you can't paint a line across the state and say all buses are bad. Many buses — usually those owned by school districts — are run extremely safe."

Eugene Trigger, a representative of State School Supt. Michael Bakalis' office, disagreed with Glass' contention that school buses are poorly constructed. "I think they're as safe as a CTA bus," he said.

Trigger also questioned the use of seat belts, citing a California school district where "a couple of kids were hit in the eye" with belts. "Besides, who is going to make sure all the kids have their belts on," he said.

SCHOOL BUS construction also was defended by Claude Bailey, director of transportation for High School Dist. 211.

"The only two things that can damage a bus are a gravel truck or a train," he said.

Bailey also noted that the state only "writes minimum requirements for buses."

"Don't blame the state for school bus construction — it's the school district that writes specifications," he said. "Our district started padding seat backs three years ago. If the district wants padding, it can just put it on."

Will new focus on regulatory agencies do any good?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The regulatory agencies, set up to be watchdogs for the consumer but now criticized as lap dogs for the industries they control, are under renewed attack for contributing to higher prices.

President Ford has asked Congress to set up a commission to "reform" the agencies. Lewis A. Engman, chairman of one of them, the Federal Trade Commission, has gone even farther, suggesting the government force the agencies to make plainly public the extent of federally approved price fixing in the airline, trucking and other industries. Public outrage at the details, Engman reasoned, might in itself force reform.

The agencies involved don't seem to be too worried.

They have heard it before, from people like Ralph Nader, and they've been investigated before. Consumer advocates are happy to see the issue brought out again, but they are skeptical that setting up another study commission as Ford suggested would do little more than use up another two years' time.

Congress got into the regulatory agency act in 1887 when it set up the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) to shield shippers from the then existing railroad monopoly.

The alphabet soup thickened in subsequent years as Congress created other agencies such as the FTC, the Civil Aeronatucis Board (CAB), the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and others — all established because of some then-present and usually urgent need for price or safety control.

In theory the agencies are independent because they must exercise powers in the way a court does, setting regulations on prices, safety and other matters. Congress reviews their activities and oversees their budgets.

Nader thinks the idea was doomed from the start because it failed to make any provision for public input. The agencies too often developed only a two-way dialogue between themselves and the regulated industries.

Their employes, Nader said recently, are neither responsible to the public nor protected from recriminations within the agency if they try to blow the whistle on something they don't think is in the public interest.

Farewell to Jaworski

Coverup trial opens today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The celebrated Watergate cover-up trial gets under way today as the 15 women and three men chosen as jurors and alternates hear opening arguments for the prosecution and defense.

John W. Dean III is expected to be the first witness Tuesday. He is the former White House counsel who became Richard Nixon's chief accuser.

Nixon himself, said now to be too ill to testify, has been subpoenaed by both the prosecution and the defense, and may eventually be on the witness stand himself.

The trial will be unaffected by the departure of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who has resigned the post effective Oct. 25, since the case in any event is being handled by a team of his assistants.

Jaworski decided several weeks ago that his task was nearly done and he could return to Texas, but he delayed his announcement until after the jury was sequestered so as not to affect the trial.

The panel of jurors has been sealed away from any possible contact with the outside world that might expose them to publicity about the case they are considering and perhaps influence their decision.

Sequestering the Watergate jury will not be cheap. The government has taken over an entire floor of a downtown Washington hotel for living quarters, a command post and two lounges for the jurors to relax in at an estimated cost of $5,000 per week.

Meals — breakfast at the hotel, lunch at the courthouse and dinner either at the hotel or local restaurants — will run another $2,500 a week and salaries for the U.S. marshals that watch over jurors will be about $1,400 weekly.

Transportation, recreation and incidental expenses such as newspapers — from which the marshals clip all Watergate stories — are extra.

The running gag in Washington is that jurors in Watergate cases are spending more time locked up than the defendants.

WHILE HENRY KISSINGER proclaimed he was off to a good start in his latest Middle East peace mission, there were dissenters. Some 8,000 demonstrators massed outside the office of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in Jerusalem while the secretary of state met elsewhere with Israeli leaders. Kissinger said he had reached agreement with Israeli officials on ways to go about getting a peace, then flew to Saudi Arabia.

More shelling in Lebanon

From United Press International

Israeli artillery blasted five targets in southeastern Lebanon intermittently for 90 minutes before dawn Sunday, damaging fields and crops on the outskirts of five villages in the Arkoub region that Israel calls "Fatahland," alleging Palestinian guerrillas are camped there.

The shelling, the second in as many days, came as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met with Israeli officials in his latest whirlwind Middle East tour to speed negotiations toward a Middle East settlement.

Kissinger said Sunday he had reached agreement with Israeli leaders on ways to go about getting a Middle East peace. He then flew on to Saudi Arabia for a round of talks with King Faisal.

While the secretary would not publicly give any details of the "principles and procedures" agreed upon, American sources said the framework for the next round of talks must include the Arab desire for return of Israeli-occupied lands, the Israeli desire for greater security, and possibly a nonbelligerency agreement, favored by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Kissinger was scheduled to fly to Cairo Sunday night for a second visit and then return to Damascus before leaving Monday night for Algeria.

Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs Joseph Sisco flew to Jordan to brief King Hussein on the Kissinger-Rabin talks.

A high-ranking American official said that the issue of who should represent the Palestinians in future peace talks is basically one to be solved between Jordan, where many of them live, and the Palestinians themselves.

Meanwhile, one of the most ambitious moves yet to get international standing for the Palestine Liberation Organization will be considered today by the United Nations.

The U. N. General Assembly will consider whether to invite representatives of the organization, the major force in Palestinian liberation movements, to take part in a debate on the Palestine questions early next month.

Israel has strongly denounced the move, charging it would make "a mockery" of the U. N. by giving the guerrillas international standing.

Book, gift revelations may hurt Rocky chances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller's chances for smooth confirmation as vice president were damaged — perhaps seriously — by his acceptance of responsibility for a derogatory campaign book and disclosure of massive gift-giving, members of Congress said Sunday.

"There's no doubt it's a deteriorating situation," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a member of the Judiciary Committee which is holding Rockefeller's confirmation hearings in the House.

Opinions varied on how far Rockefeller's confirmation has been set back.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Rules Committee which is handling Rockefeller's confirmation in the Senate, said a vote on the nomination might be delayed until late December by the new developments.

Edwards said the House might vote on confirmation by the first week in December.

But Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, said there is a possibility the confirmation process would be slowed so much by new hearings that no action could be taken until after a new Congress is in session next year.

The book for which Rockefeller accepted "full responsibility" was a derogatory biography about former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg published in 1970 when Goldberg was opposing Rockefeller for the New York governorship. It was written by author Victor Lasky and published with a $60,000 investment by Rockefeller's brother Laurance.

Showdown: Turkey aid veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recess plans altered, Congress Sunday awaited a final showdown with President Ford on continued military assistance to Turkey.

Members postponed their recess, which had been scheduled to start last Friday, after efforts to find a compromise on the aid bill failed in the House.

Ford was expected to send to Congress, probably Tuesday, a veto of legislation which would immediately cut off all arms aid to Turkey.

The House is scheduled to vote the same day on whether to uphold or override the veto. It requires a two-thirds vote in both Senate and House to override.

Under normal circumstances, Congress would have avoided the confrontation and returned home so that members could campaign for re-election. But the arms embargo is a rider to a resolution providing funds for departments and agencies which have not yet received their regular appropriations for fiscal 1975. Without the resolution, programs and payrolls would stop at the Departments of Health, Education and Welfare, Labor, and Agriculture plus some agencies.

If Congress over-rides the veto, an immediate ban on military assistance to Turkey would go into effect. And if Congress upholds the veto, it will have no choice but to rush through a separate resolution to fund the pauper agencies.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., charged Sunday that the Ford Administration is letting Greek refugees on Cyprus suffer because of a cynical U.S. "tilt" toward Turkey. He said the "paltry" humanitarian aid that the U. S. is giving on the ravaged Mediterranean island is intended only to promote Turkish interests.

William Simon in Moscow; grain deal may be restored

• Amid speculation that a controversial grain deal will be re-established, Treasury Secretary William Simon arrived in Moscow Sunday for talks to promote Soviet-American business ties. Simon — referring to the $500 million grain deal blocked by President Ford — said he had "no instructions" on the issue, but said there certainly would be discussion of the grain situation worldwide. Washington sources had said earlier that Simon told them that a significant portion of the deal would be reinstated.

Nobody rated a zero, but there were four senators tied for last with 3: Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Carl Curtis of Nebraska, Paul Fannin of Arizona and Jessie Helms of North Carolina, all Republicans. As a group, the GOP rated 41, the Democrats 58.

• For a choice that wasn't supposed to be controversial, the selection of former Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato as a co-winner of the 1974 Nobel Peace Prize is beginning to stir quite a flap. Now the Norwegian Nobel Institute has confirmed there was "a high amount" of lobbying on Sato's behalf, including a former Japanese U.N. ambassador, but denied it was unusual or influential.

President and Mrs. Ford to visit Poland

President and Mrs. Ford have accepted an invitation from Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek to visit Poland, a joint U.S.-Polish communique said Sunday. No date for the visit has been set, but Ford is expected to make a trip to Moscow next year and he may combine it with a stopover in Poland.

Senator asks probe of VIP fishing camps

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged Sunday that the Army and Air Force are spending thousands of taxpayer dollars to maintain special quarters for high-ranking officers who want to fish for salmon in Alaska. He asked the General Accounting Office to investigate the fishing camps as well as others in Canada to determine who used them and how much they cost to maintain. The cost may exceed $500,000 a year, he said.

Jet performance results kept secret

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Sunday accused the Navy and Air Force chiefs of staff of keeping secret from Defense Secretary James Schlesinger tests which revealed a new Air Force F-15 jet far outperformed a new Navy F-14 jet which costs $5 million per unit more to build. Eagleton said the tests were never made public "in order to preserve the pride of the Navy."

Solution needed for soaring court workload

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, in an annual statement released two days before the Supreme Court starts hearing oral arguments in the 1974-75 term, said Sunday there is a "serious need for new solutions for the court's growing workload." The justices last week considered a record 1,000 appeals of various kinds — up 40 per cent from 696 appeals at the beginning of Burger's first term as chief justice five years ago.

Dems scolded for opposing Ford plan

House Minority Leader John Rhodes scolded Democrats Sunday for not giving President Ford's new economic proposals a chance after Sen. William Proximire, D-Wis., called them a "marshmallow type program" and predicted Ford's proposed 5 per cent surtax would never be passed. "One of the things which we have to fight in this country is a lack of confidence," said Rhodes. "I just don't like to see people trying to talk us into a depression."

Nixon pardon won't hurt GOP: chairman

Mary Louise Smith, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Sunday she does not believe President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon will be an influential issue in the Nov. 5 election. "I think we are going to do much better than people are predicting," she said.

"everyone's friends with everyone. The cheerleaders and football players aren't considered jocks anymore — anyone can be friends.

"No matter who you are you can't help get all wrapped up in the school. The homecoming game is really special — if there's one person who doesn't go they're crazy," she continued.

TOM VAN DIEN, a counselor at Schaumburg, pointed to the rise in girl's athletics and a new attitude in coaches to "include everyone" as a reason for the rise in spirit.

At Hersey, activities director Boyd Saum said kids are looking back at the '50s and getting caught up in the way things were then.

The pep club at Maine West High School has more than doubled its membership this year. "I haven't seen this kind of involvement (from kids) in years," said John Carle, faculty adviser to the club, whose members graduated from West in 1965.

Homecomings, spirit, involvement hit their low mark during the 1970-71 school year — the year after Kent State and the campus turmoil that preceded it.

But this year the upswing is evident.

"There is a definite increase in kids who are into things . . . not just freshman but all levels," Carle said. "They're not afraid of being 'rah rahs'. I think people are tired of being negative — maybe standing up and being positive about something just feels good."

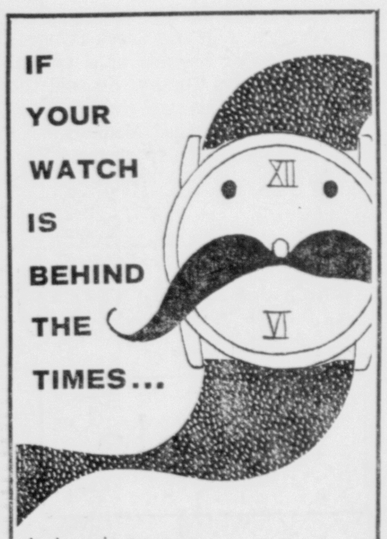

'They're not afraid of being rah-rahs.'

'I haven't seen this kind of involvement in years,' said one teacher.

Covers discipline, sex education

River Trails schools OK revised policy manual

Student discipline, sex education and school board ethics are among topics covered in a revised policy manual recently adopted by the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education.

The manual was revised by a three-member committee chaired by board member Leora Rosen. Most of the writing was done by the administration with the board committee providing suggestions and some revisions, Mrs. Rosen said.

Many of the new policies — including those on open transfer, vandalism and gifts to teacher — are merely written forms of policies previously followed by the school administration, according to Mrs. Rosen. Other policies are restatements of guidelines from the Illinois School Code.

"THE EMPHASIS in recent years is on getting things down in writing," she said. "The more policies you have written down, the less likely you are to fall into a crisis."

The revisions were discussed and approved at public meetings of the board. Copies of the new manual are available from the school district.

New policies in the manual include:

• Discipline: Corporal punishment as a disciplinary measure will not be used without the expressed consent of the child's parent or guardian. This shall not be construed to forbid the physical restraint of a pupil when necessary for health or safety nor does it exclude verbal reprimands that most observers would consider reasonable under the circumstances.

• Student suspension or expulsion: Removal of a child from school will be usually limited to youngsters who are guilty of "gross disobedience or misconduct" or who have been discipline problems "over a period of time." Expulsion occurs only after a requested conference with board and parents.

• Student records: A parent or guardian may review their child's cumulative record "at any time deemed necessary." No student records will be released to another school district, hospital or mental health agency without a signed release from the parents.

• Open transfer: Parents living in the district may have their child transferred to any school in the district with certain limitations, such as parents providing the transportation.

• Sex education: No student will be required to take part in sex education classes if his parents or guardian submits a written objection.

• Religious instruction: Students will not be excused from class for religious instruction except for children between 12 and 14 years of age attending confirmation classes.

• School board ethics: Board members will file written statements of economic interests with the County Clerk. School district employes with a salary of at least $20,000 a year must also file an ethics statement.

• Gifts to employes: The board discourages gifts to employes from any vendor or prospective vendor. Any gifts received will be immediately returned.

The revised manual includes several new features — a table of contents and index and detailed job descriptions for both certified and noncertified employes. It is divided into nine major sections with chapters on the board of education, administrative organization, finance and business operations, students, instructional program, teaching staff, noncertified staff, insurance and general policies.

Officials study court decision to limit building

Des Plaines officials are studying last week's Circuit Court decision in the Church of the Three Crosses case to see what effect it might have on limiting development of the Walgreens property at Lee Street and Touhy Avenue.

The court decision, which upheld a Des Plaines zoning board decision to prohibit construction of commercial buildings at Oakton Avenue and Mount Prospect Road, also confirmed the legality of several convenants placed on the land barring commercial development.

When Walgreens officials confirmed last month they planned to sell a 26-acre tract, some officials and area residents voiced concern over whether the convenants placed on the land would apply to the new owners.

WALGREENS ORIGINALLY planned to construct its national offices on the land, but scrapped the plan after purchasing office facilities that had been used by Baxter Laboratory in Deerfield.

A spokesman for Walgreens said the Des Plaines site has not been sold.

When the company initially requested rezoning of the land which had been the campus of St. Patrick Academy, local residents protested, saying commercial development would disrupt the surrounding residential area.

Walgreens initially intended to build on only half of the land and develop the remaining property for commercial use.

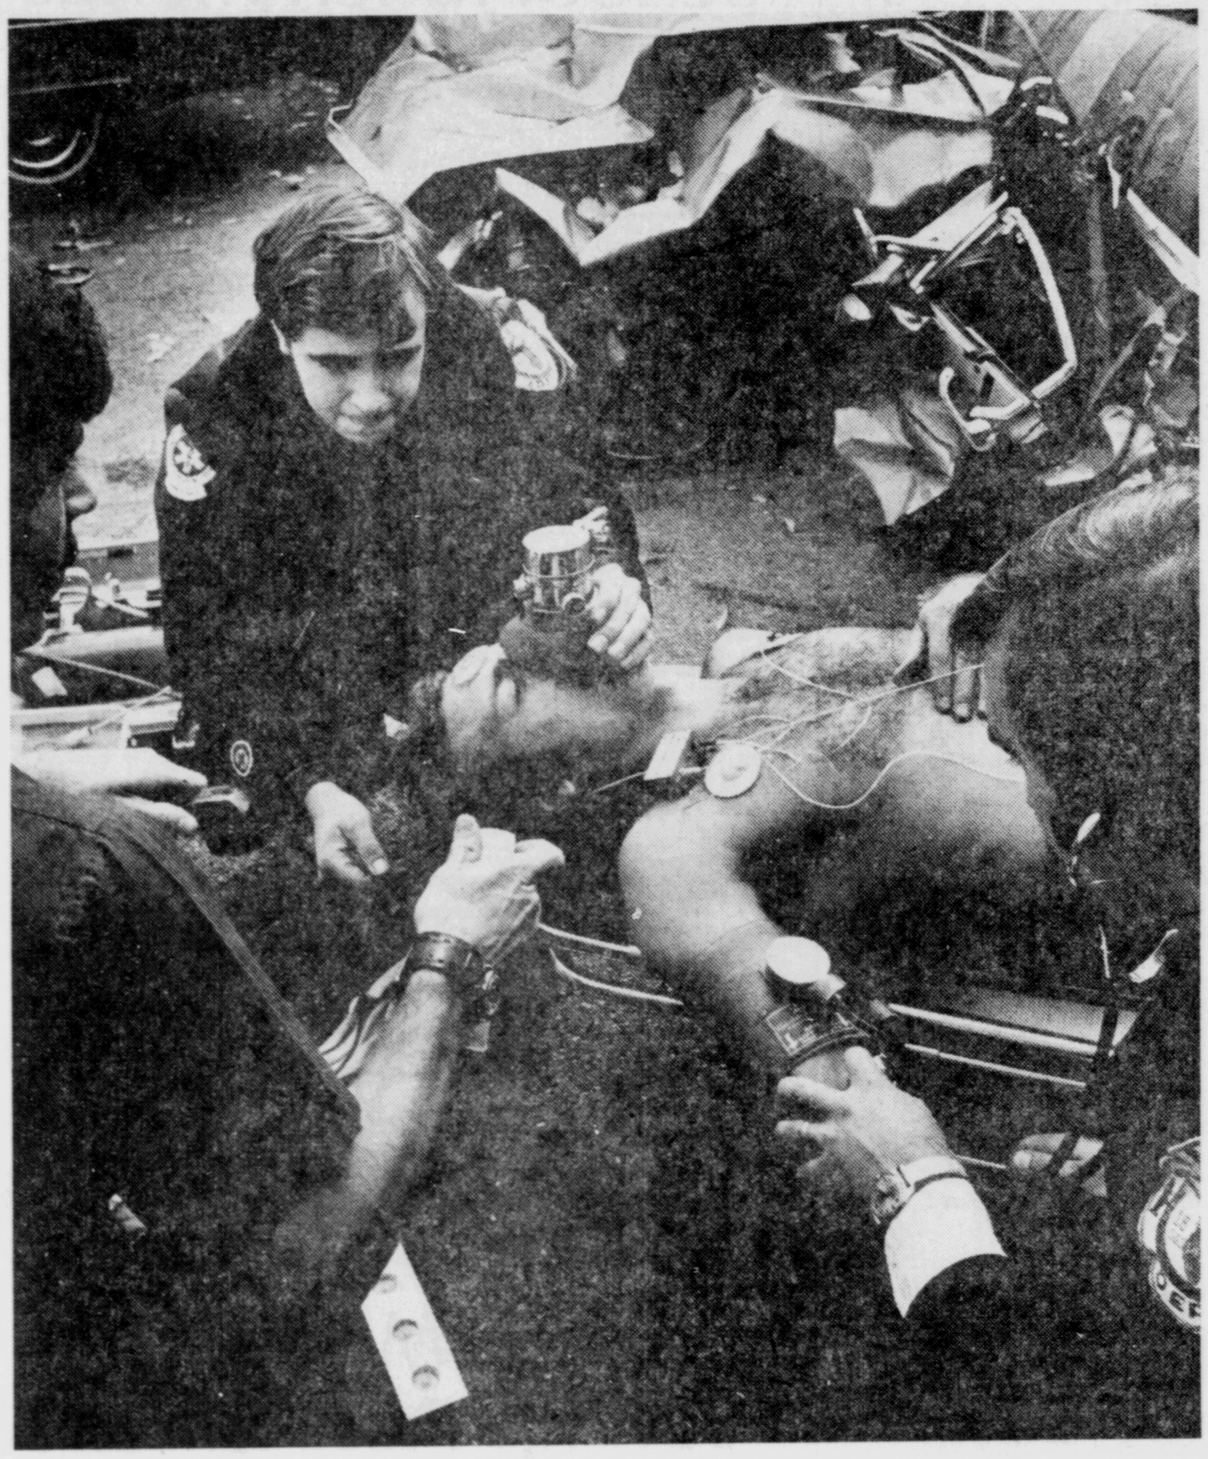

During the zoning hearings, Walgreens agreed to a number of restrictive convenants on the property that would bar the use of the land for some business, like auto sales, taverns, pool halls, psychiatric wares or newspaper offices.

SOME CITY OFFICIALS were concerned whether the covenants would remain binding once the land was sold.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said last week the court decision on the Church of the Three Crosses case indicated the courts still are accepting covenants as legally binding documents.

Walgreens decided to scrap its Des Plaines plans because the necessary office space could be obtained more quickly by purchasing the Baxter property.

Fake rescue makes real impression

IT COULD BE for real, but Friday Des Plaines firefighters were only demonstrating some of the sophisticated new paramedic equipment the department has obtained. The demonstration and a luncheon was planned by the department for members of the Des Plaines Rotary Club, the Jaycee Wives and the Happy Twirlers square dance club, all of whom donated funds to help purchase medical equipment and other gear for the department.

Lunch was barely finished when the alarm horn sounded and a squad of firefighters bolted from the kitchen to their work.

Just as in a real emergency, the men answered a call to a simulated traffic accident where two men were pinned in the wreckage.

It could have been a life and death situation, but Friday the action was staged for city officials and Des Plaines Rotary Club.

Firefighters worked with a Hurst tool, a powered crow bar-type device, to free two men trapped in a badly wrecked auto.

ONCE THE "victims" were freed a team of paramedics and emergency medical technicians went to work with a battery of sophisticated equipment.

Within minutes the treatment had been started. The equipment was transmitting the vital signs of one of the victims to a nearby hospital for diagnosis by a doctor.

Without the help of the Rotary Club and the Jaycee Wives and the Happy Twirlers Square dance group, the equipment that was being put to work might not have been available.

The three groups have pledged to contribute more than $17,000 to help pay for the equipment and the fire department took a day to thank their benefactors.

THE DEMONSTRATION was smooth and professional and the bystanders remarking about the highly efficient operation.

It was a mutual admiration society for a time, as Fire Chief Don Corey thanked the groups for the support.

In turn, John Scambler, President of the Rotary Club, responded that "the attitude and efficiency shown here clearly indicates the money has been well spent."

The club is continuing to raise funds for the program, Scambler said. A $100-a-plate dinner will be held on Nov. 20. Tickets for the event are available from the Rotary Club or by calling James Boumna at 824-3652.

Corey explained that the paramedic service, which is aimed at treating heart attack victims and persons with serious injuries, will be in service soon. Additional ambulances and equipment are being planned so that all three fire stations in the city will have the equipment in the future.

How well do you know your child?

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15

Parents in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will meet in workshops this fall designed to improve parent-child relationships.

Workshops are scheduled for Tuesday and Saturday this week and Nov. 12 and 26th from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., Palatine. Each workshop is open to all parents in Dist. 15.

The workshops are sponsored by the Title I program at Dist. 15, a federally funded program for educationally or culturally deprived students. Marcy Schwadenbauer of Title I will assist parents in improving their relationship with their children by teaching effective listening and sharing.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23

Citizens interested in working toward pathways along Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads will meet today at 7:30 p.m. at Sullivan School, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

Petitions to get approval from residents effected by the proposed pathways will be handed out for distribution. The pathways would be built on the west side of Schoenbeck Road between Hintz and Camp McDonald roads and on the north side of Camp McDonald Road between Elm Street and Elmhurst Road once a majority of the homeowners give their approval and funds for construction are available.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

An open house and meeting of the PTA will be held at Frost Junior High School, 320 Wise Rd., Schaumburg, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

After a brief business meeting parents will tour classrooms and meet teachers. Margeret Schiller, membership chairman, will register new members. Refreshments will be served.

Students at Anne Fox School, 1305 Parkview Dr., Hanover Park, will see a program "Rhythm is in You," by Urban Gateway, a Chicago dance group Thursday morning at the school.

The program is sponsored by the PTA. The group will perform folk dances, jazz, classical ballet, modern dance and African ritual dances.

Des Plaines Dist. 62

The Orchard Place School PTA will meet at 1 p.m. Thursday in the multi-purpose room of the school, 2727 Maple. The program will feature Peeko Puppet Productions' "Grimm's Fairy Tales."

The Orchard Place School PTA will hold its annual fun fair from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 2 at the school, 2727 Maple. The fair will feature a bake sale, white elephant sale and a craft table. Hotdogs, barbecues, potato chips and soda will be sold in the school cafeteria.

Maine Township High School Dist. 207

Four Maine East High School students attended the Fourth Annual Mayor's of Cook County Youth Conference on Smoking. The four — Cory Abrams, Kim Kopoian, Judy Lamping and Mike Wagner — are members of the staff of the school newspaper.

Maine East High School senior Anna Galan and junior Laura Vincolese have been named co-editors-in-chief of the yearbook.

Section editors are Pat Madigan, Jill Anderson, Eileen Urban, Sheri Perlman and Gail Cohn. Other staff members are Roz Ehrenreich, Lesley Corey, Sharon Stetz, Mary Russell, Maribeth Cleary, Angie Flores, Marilanne Anderson, Evelyn Wells, Lisa Di Vita, Scott Cohn, Chris Kathe, Anna Datti and Gary Ruff.

Photographers are Floyd Dillman and Ron Styne. Marc Hempel is the staff artist.

High School Dist. 214

An open house will be held Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. at Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd., Wheeling. Parents will have the opportunity to follow a modified schedule of their children's classes starting at 7:45 p.m.

Discussion sessions also will be held with counselors and administrators, that will cover discipline, regulations, college counseling, career information and testing programs.

Bob and Betty Sanders of radio station WBBM and Lyle Dean of radio station WLS will be among the guest instrutors at the second annual speech workshop Saturday at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights.

Sponsored by the school's Individual Events speech team, the workshop is aimed at "providing the best learning experience capable of stimulating potential talent in the participants," said Linda Nelson, IE coach.

Other guest instructors at the workshop, which will run from 9 a.m. until noon, will be Frank Galati, president of the Illinois Theatre Assn.; Norman Potts, drama department, of Northern Illinois University, and Robert W. Tysl, department of communications, Harper College.

Students from 25 area schools have been invited to participate in events such as prose and poetry, dramatic and humorous duet acting, readers' theater and radio speaking.

High School Dist. 211

Open house will be held at three high schools in High School Dist. 211 this week.

The open house at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates, will be held Wednesday and will follow the school's theme "a student-centered approach to education." Individual parent-teacher conferences will be held between 1:30 and 3 p.m. and between 7 and 9 p.m. Exhibits will be on display in the media center and in each class department all day. Refreshments will be available in the school cafeteria.

Fremd and Schaumburg high schools each will hold an open house Thursday.

Parents of Fremd High School students will attend their child's classes in a shortened version of the school day beginning at 7:45 p.m. at the school, 1000 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine. Personal conferences with staff members may be arranged for a later date. Demonstrations, exhibits, dramatic presentations, and athletic games will be on display throughout the building. Parents may visit these areas during study halls and lunch periods on their child's schedule.

The open house at Schaumburg High School, 1100 W. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, begins at 7:30 p.m. and will give parents the opportunity to observe the school routine. The program will include small group tours of the building, department presentations, individual teacher conferences, special displays and presentations, students working in class, and conferences with counselors and administrators.

Immanuel Lutheran School

Immanuel Lutheran School PTL, 160 N. Plum Grove, Palatine, will sponsor a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Clothing, appliances, toys, books, furniture and miscellaneous household items will be on sale in the school cafeteria. The PTL will meet at 8 p.m. Oct. 22 at the school to discuss Walcamp.

The almanac

Today is Monday, Oct. 14, the 287th day of 1974 with 78 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

The 34th President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, was born Oct. 14, 1890.

On this date in history:

In 1912, former President Theodore Roosevelt was shot in Milwaukee, but refused to have the wound treated until he had finished his third-term campaign speech.

In 1933, Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations as war clouds darkened over Europe.

In 1944, British and Greek troops liberated Athens, ending three years of occupation by German troops.

In 1949, the East German puppet state was set up in Berlin by Soviet occupation authorities.

A thought for the day:

Allied Supreme Commander Dwight D. Eisenhower said after victory in World War II, Humility must always be the portion of any man who received acclaim earned in the blood of his followers and the sacrifices of his friends.

You can learn how to form food cooperative

Concerned with rising food costs, Northwest suburban consumers will get a chance to hear how to form a food cooperative as a means to beat the high cost of eating.

Leaders of the Good People's Co-op will sponsor an educational session Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at the Arlington Heights Public Library to explain how their organization works and the savings it has brought their 86 member families.

The meeting was scheduled in response to the more than 100 telephone calls made to co-op leaders following two stories in last week's editions of The Herald that told of the co-op effort to save money and assure the purchase of high quality meat, produce and cheese.

RESPONSE TO THE stories has been overwhelming, said Tonya Keaton, co-ordinator of the co-op. Women's clubs, teachers' organizations and other large groups have inquired about starting their own cooperative.

Mrs. Keaton said the majority of calls have been from persons living in Arlington Heights and that's why the meeting will be held at the library, 500 N. Dunton.

The first 20 persons who called about the GP Co-Op last Monday morning were allowed membership in the organization. The other callers were encouraged to think about forming their own co-ops and were offered assistance by the GP leaders for a charge of about $10 per family membership.

According to the co-op leaders, membership in their organization was limited to 93 families because it would become too unwieldy to function with a bigger group. More families would mean more orders, more order takers, more packers and more paperwork, they said.

Carter to address Scout Lunch-o-Ree

The Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America will host the 1974 Boy Scouts' Construction Industry Lunch-o-Ree at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel Thursday.

Virgil Carter, quarterback of the Chicago Fire football team will be special guest speaker of the event, sponsored by the Chicago construction industry. The annual event serves as a major fund-raising function for the Northwest Suburban Boy Scouts.

Falsecard should be automatic

Jim: "Last week we wrote about squeeze plays including the so-called automatic squeeze."

Oswald: "I suppose you want us to get around to other plays which should be automatic."

Jim: "The automatic falsecard is one of these. South's jump to four spades is a mild overbid. He has to get away without losing a trump trick to make his contract."

Oswald: "The defense starts with three rounds of hearts. South ruffs the third lead and probably leads a diamond. Dummy's queen falls to East's ace and a club comes back."

Jim: "South wins in dummy; leads a low spade and finesses his queen. At this point it is up to West to falsecard and drop the nine."

Oswald: "He could also drop the 10. The important point is that if he drops the six, South's only play to make his contract will be to lay down the ace and drop the king. If West plays the nine or 10 South may go back to dummy; lead the jack and hope to bump the king and the other intermediate card together."

SEC may take on Big Board's big guys

by LEONARD CURRY

WASHINGTON — The Securities and Exchange Commission, which has upset the status quo for stock exchanges, brokers, securities lawyers and accountants, may be preparing to take on the institutions.

The SEC still has many problems ahead with its central market system, but the groundwork has been laid. Despite dissent from the exchanges, the SEC plans to implement the first part in February.

The brokers have been stung by the end of fixed commission rates, a nearly 200-year tradition that will die next May.

As for lawyers and accountants, the SEC is holding them responsible for corporate decisions and faulty financial reporting that leads to anti-fraud suits.

WITH ALL this for a backdrop, the SEC may now be planning to look into institutional trading. The institutions have come under attack in Congress, especially by U.S. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., who has advocated limits on their portfolios. In a Congress mired in Watergate, he made little progress.

Bentsen and some SEC officials feel increasing strength of institutions eventually will chase out of the market even more of the individual investors whose variety of opinion and financial goals was responsible for growth of the securities industry from the sidewalks of Wall Street in the 18th Century to world envy in the 1960s.

Now the SEC, which has been sweeping into the dusty corners of the securities cupboards for the past five years, apparently is going to scrub the windows for a look into institutional backyards.

The bank trust departments, insurance companies and pension funds through block trading have taken over 70 per cent of the New York Stock Exchange volume. The size of their transactions often has distorted values and caused dismay to individual investors, who believe the block traders are getting more and better securities information.

WHILE INCREASING their share of the market, the institutions have whittled brokerage fees to the point that they account for less than 50 per cent of the commission income of Big Board member firms. With competitive rates coming next spring, the brokers and the exchanges are moaning quietly to the SEC about the possibility of ever weaker positions vis-a-vis the block traders.

Brokers have been telephoning the SEC to complain that institutions are driving down negotiable commissions on transactions of more than $300,000. Some point to the inability of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., the largest brokerage, to make higher prices stick for institutions.

The SEC officially is denying more than mild interest in institutions. Top staff, who do the research and make recommendations to the commissioners on policy matters, are trying to play down a conference scheduled Oct. 29 to look into brokerage paid by institutions.

Comr. A. A. Sommer Jr. says the Oct. 29 conference is to determine whether institutions must by law pay the rockbottom price without regard to research. "It is a legal question. I don't think there's much to it," says Sommer.

But the SEC is calling for representatives of the institutions and the brokerage industry to meet with the commissioners and staff for talks. The SEC moves deliberately and the results of the conference will not begin to emerge for many months.

Commodity mart trading up 20%

The MidAmerica Commodity Exchange, Chicago, posted record gains in trading volume during the third quarter of 1974. A total of 594,398 contracts changed hands during this period, up 20 per cent over third-quarter totals in 1973, said J. Robert Collins, president.

Contributing to the record high were the 181,414 transactions made during September, a 34 per cent increase over September 1973. This marks the seventh consecutive month in which volume gains have been recorded at MidAmerica, Collins said.

January-September trading volume totaled 1,552,879 contracts, up 20 per cent over the first nine months of 1973. The approximate dollar volume of contracts traded at MidAmerica January-September 1974 reached $7.1 billion, an increase of 48 per cent from a year ago.

During September, corn and wheat were the two most actively traded commodities, together accounting for 72 per cent of the exchange's contract volume. Soybeans posted the most dramatic volume increase, with 394 per cent more contracts traded during September 1974 than a year ago.

DeSoto Inc. reports slight sales increase; pre-tax earnings dip

DeSoto Inc., Des Plaines, reported third-quarter sales from continuing operations were $66,784,000 compared to $65,955,000 in last year's comparable period, reflecting a small increase of 1.3 per cent.

Earnings before taxes on income of these same operations were $3,803,000, representing a decline of 22.8 per cent, compared to the same period in 1973. Earnings per share from continuing operations for the third quarter were 37 cents, compared to 49 cents last year. Net earnings, including discontinued operations, were 37 cents in the third quarter compared to 42 cents in 1973.

Sales increases continued, as they did in the second quarter, in Chemical Coatings, Chemical Products and Wallcoverings, where increases for the third quarter of 11.5 per cent, 9.4 per cent and 20.4 per cent respectively, were recorded over last year. Furniture sales recorded a decrease of 17.3 per cent.

For the nine months ended September 30, 1974, sales from continuing operations were $202,192,000, an increase of 7.7 per cent over last year. Net earnings per share were 97 cents for the first nine months, compared to $1.23 last year.

Confusion on cholesterol

I have a cholesterol problem and have been put on a low cholesterol diet. Is a high cholesterol related to weight gain? What is the normal cholesterol level?

On my diet list, candy, soda, wine, beer, crabs, shrimp and cake aren't listed. I was wondering if you could tell me which ones are permitted, if any.

Do you have any booklets on low cholesterol diets and explanation of this disorder?

Confusion abounds about cholesterol. Cholesterol in your bloodstream comes from two sources, mostly that formed by the liver and some from the cholesterol in your food. Yes, yes, yes, eating too much of anything that results in a weight gain (obesity) can lead to excess production of cholesterol by the liver in many people.

Sugar, fat, alcohol and even excess protein can be readily converted to cholesterol and blood fats (triglycerides). A low cholesterol diet, or a low fat diet will not be as successful as it could be unless you prevent or eliminate obesity.

The normal value of cholesterol isn't very useful if you mean usual value. We do know that to be in the lowest risk group, that is the least likely to have a heart attack, it is better to have a cholesterol level of below 220. Because of different laboratory methods, some methods may give a reading five to 15 per cent higher than 220 and still be an acceptable reading for this risk group. In general, I think you could say that if it is over 220 it could be improved, and if it is over 250 you should do something about it.

OF THE FOODS you asked about, it makes a lot of difference how some of them are prepared. Cake can be almost devoid of cholesterol, as in angel food cake, which is also low in fat, or very high in cholesterol if made with lots of egg yolks as in a pound cake. They can contain lots of saturated fat, as in many commercial devil food cakes. You can bake your own using safflower oil or corn oil and avoiding egg yolks and have a cake that is low in saturated fat and free of cholesterol.

Soda, wine, and beer contain no cholesterol or fat. Alcohol, however, is high in calories and contributes to obesity.

The best information I can refer you to for your type of questions is my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health," published by Viking Press. It will give you all the values for cholesterol for all common foods, the calories of fats (saturated and polyunsaturated), a discussion of the various types of food and recipes to prepare your food for low-fat, low-cholesterol diets, or for just low calorie foods for weight control.

Most shellfish, except oysters, are moderately high in cholesterol and can be used, but should be used sparingly.

I am a man, 61 years old and I work every day. I would appreciate it if you could tell me if pickles and olives can cause high blood pressure.

No, they won't. But if you need to restrict your salt because of high blood pressure, then your doctor might not want you to eat them, because they do contain lots of salt.

Sidewalk construction hit

The board of local improvements of Arlington Heights has recently "served notice" to approximately 100 families in the northeast quadrant of the village that sidewalks will be constructed, fully at the expense of each homeowner where sidewalks do not already exist.

To this proposal, I issue the following challenges to our board of local improvements, village board of trustees and village engineer:

- Why haven't all affected families been informed of the intended assessment or even the public hearing held on Sept. 26, as the village board directed?
- Why haven't the affected families been allowed to decide along with the board if this construction is necessary or even desirable?
- Why does one section of the village require sidewalks on both sides of every street, when other parts of the village remain without any public walks?
- How can an expense of $1,500 to $4,000 per household be justified at the same time our federal government is calling on us to "tighten belts?"
- Are our village trees, landmarks and landscaping worth this landscaping venture, and how will concrete walks improve an area more than trees and shrubs?
- Does the village expect homeowners who do not have several thousands of dollars on hand to get a loan or second mortgage (if even available) of approximately 9½ per cent, or does the village expect these homeowners to lower their standard of living for the next five years?
- Why does the village expect certain residents to pay the entire cost of inflationary ideas, while other areas of the village are given new streets and lighting at the entire village's expense?
- Why isn't the entire village required to install sidewalks at one time, which might significantly reduce the cost for everyone?
- If the village feels so strongly that these sidewalks are required, why isn't the village willing to assume at least some portion of this project?

I expect very little in response to these questions, but I remain hopeful that at least one administrator has kept the public's welfare in mind while determining village policies. And what if the board cannot respond to these questions — should they be allowed to continue forcing their decisions upon our village? Perhaps others than myself still feel that people deserve a voice in their government. If so, now is a good time to take back our constitutional rights.

Taxpayer or village board member, please give me your opinions — pro or con. I intend to approach the village board before their Oct. 25 deadline.

Coronets 'good for girls'

As parents of a Coronet, my husband and I are also responding to the letter of Sept. 11 and Oct. 2 in the Fence Post.

As parents of a Coronet, who travel all over the country representing Arlington Heights, we feel local people don't know enough about them.

It is not only for the competing they do, but also for the good it does for the girls to just belong and be a part of them. It has taught our daughter so many things.

The girls work as one when they are on the field. They are the most respected drill team in the country. In Colorado they were asked back because of the standing ovation they received.

In South Milwaukee a little old lady opens her home and heart every year to "her girls from Arlington Heights." She even put off surgery until after their competition so they wouldn't worry about her. If they weren't something special, this wouldn't happen. They helped parents of a member share their loss of their daughter, a Coronet. She died the morning of American Legion competition. They cried, went on the field and won and the next two days they acted as honor guard at the wake.

One member's father died the day before they left for New York. Before the girls got on the bus to leave Arlington Heights, they all pitched in out of their own pockets, and believe me they work hard for their money, to fly her to New York in time for competition. This is what you call spirit. Mrs. Lynstrom has taught them this.

The paper should let Arlington Heights people know about the good will these girls show at all times, wherever they go. We need this.

Development story hit

Subject: Kewanee Peninsula, Upper Michigan

The article mentioned was read with much interest being that I am a former native of the area discussed. I would suggest that before The Herald print any other articles such as this, they attempt to obtain all of the truths rather than accepting a conglomerate's facts on face value. Many of the comments mentioned are completely untrue and biased placing the reading public's sympathy with Universal Oil.

Items such as copper being played out are completely untrue in that Universal Oil closed the area when a strike could not be settled.

No comments are made about Universal Oil restricting prized businesses from moving into the area or local individuals attempting to open small businesses in the former mining company buildings which, incidentally, are being demolished by wrecking contractors at the direction of Universal Oil.

We former natives are not looking for revenge, only a fair shake for our former homes.

Perhaps your newspaper would consider investigating all the facts before printing a biased article.

Herald opinion

We back new prairie and buffalo

Illinois was once a land of prairie grass, buffalo and a spaciousness which characterizes the great flatlands of the Midwest. Today, there's no reason we shouldn't make an effort to rebuild at least a tiny piece of this state's natural past.

Under consideration now by Chicago's Metropolitan Sanitary District is a unique scheme to do just that. Although there are elements of the plan that are slightly amusing, it's a good overall way of starting the reconstruction.

The MSD has been using a 15,000 acre tract in downstate Fulton County as a "farm" for sludge, which is the rehabilitated by-product of Cook County's sewage systems.

Sludge is an excellent fertilizer, and somebody's come up with the idea of planting prairie grass on this tract (which was formerly used for strip mining) in order to reconstruct a portion of the Illinois prairie.

The idea's started to catch on in Fulton County, and now the MSD has gone a step further; it wants to spend $2,400 to buy five buffalo (yes, you read it right the first time) and let them roam wild — perhaps with other animals — on the property.

For everyone involved, it's a splendid idea, and the MSD will be a special beneficiary of the proposal. The use of sludge as fertilizer has been a sore point for several years in central Illinois, and the MSD faces an advisory referendum in November on the matter. If the MSD is kicked out of Fulton County, it would be hard pressed to find another location for dumping the sludge.

The scheme could be criticized by purists as a reconstruction of the prairie, rather than a preservation of the real thing. However, it doesn't seem to matter just how we get the prairie, just as long as we have it and then preserve it.

Adding buffalo to the land won't cost us too much money, and for the future of this state, it's a worthwhile use of tax money. The redevelopment of this land should remind all of us of Illinois' rich historical past — and it is a past which does not have to be buried forever.

Lauds paramedics

I was in the Jewel store in Wheeling and witnessed an accident. A small child was badly hurt when cut by glass. They called the Wheeling paramedics and in no time the child was bandaged and on the way to the hospital.

Wheeling can be very proud of these good men, showing how they care about helping others.

'We need a new library'

I am sorry Mr. DuPlessis did not ask my opinion on a new library for Mount Prospect. I can hardly wait!

I am a mother of three children — last year I had one in grade school, one in junior high and one in high school, and I am a nursery school teacher. I would say our combined success at obtaining books we need for our various pursuits at the Mount Prospect library has been about 5 per cent. Everyone there is lovely and cooperative but they are fighting a losing battle trying to cram into a little space enough material for our population and needs.

There are eight nursery schools I know of using our library.

Has Mr. DuPlessis tried to get any seasonable book — say on fall, for example, or Halloween or Christmas at the appropriate time of year? Maybe there are three copies of any one popular book and how many children and nursery schools all wanting the same books? Did Mr. DuPlessis ever take 18 pre-schoolers to a story hour in our children's department? Or to compare, to Arlington Heights with their "theatre" for storytelling. Surroundings are part of what "sells" the library and books to small children.

My high schooler has given up competing for the current book assignment in his contemporary fiction class. He is buying it!

Has Mr. DuPlessis ever tried to find resources on Chile when the whole junior high eighth grade is doing a report on some country in South America? We bought the needed resource!

My grade schooler was involved in a unit on Winnie-the-Pooh last year — all books in the school library and all at Mount Prospect library were out. We bought the needed book! $15 or $16 per year on my tax bill would be a bargain!

Please! Please! A new library and the sooner the better!

Kristin D. Williams
Mount Prospect

P.S. I wonder how long the wait is for the current best-seller? I waited about eight weeks for the last one I was interested in and had lost interest by the time I got it!

EVE story praised

Dear Wandalyn Rice:

The fine article you wrote about our Oct. 1 EVE in-service has, of course, come to my attention!

I just wanted to let you know how very much I personally appreciate your being interested enough to take the time to attend our meeting. Having our teachers hear Dr. Gysbers has long been my objective. To have his ideas shared with the public via your fine article is a wonderful bonus.

Tom Wellman's column

'Public service' walks supported

Three months ago, when I started walking to work every day, the only public service I thought I would be performing would be to work off a few inches around my waistline.

Now, with President Gerald Ford's declaration about chopping 5 per cent off your gasoline mileage, it seems that all along I was performing my public duty.

But "public service" wasn't exactly on my mind this summer when I moved within a mile of The Herald's Arlington Heights office. What mattered was that my physical exercise was limited to walking across the newsroom to the coffee machine. Some kind of added exercise was clearly in order.

After three months of it, it's been a pleasure (President Ford notwithstanding). Walking to and from work is restful, weight-reducing and the finest kind of way to relate to our often-ignored natural environment.

Granted, not everyone should walk to work, especially if you live in the Northwest suburbs and work in the Loop. And walking to work requires an adjustment in one's life style, however slight; my car must be kept at the newspaper office, and it can require much planning between you and your wife to work out a reasonable system.

It takes, too, a boost of encouragement the first time you try it, for you do arrive at work slightly sweaty and slightly winded. A fellow worker suggested that Thoreau got his start this way, so I felt cheered.

Morning after morning, afternoon after afternoon, I kept the pace. My wife and I started to walk into town on weekends for groceries or the Sunday paper, and it quickly became an enjoyable, social experience.

On such daily journeys, you meet your neighbors, for everyone between home and office becomes a neighbor. My barber lives along my route and I've exchanged small talk with him. A critic of past Herald editorials lives along the way, and I grudgingly admire her two-story frame home whenever I pass it.

Daily I encounter the sales clerk from the local newsstand, for she's heading to Arlington High School while I'm heading to The Herald. I'm working on a rich relationship with Eddie Lahey, our political editor's five-year-old son. Eddie, it seems, can outtalk the baest of the politicians that his father covers daily for The Herald.

Before the walks began, nature was the kind of nuisance to be sworn at from an apartment balcony or smiled at when the swimming pool season began.

Now, nature cannot be avoided, and, in fact, is to be enjoyed. The change in the temperature, the color on the trees and the crunch of leaves under your feet become the important elements to consider and to remember. And you can't miss the fact that this has been a record year for the Northwest suburban rabbit population.

The walk's not a birdwalk, however, for it gives me a chance to organize my day and to write mentally the week's column. There are no telephones to ring out distractions; but if you become trapped in your own heavy thoughts, you just might walk right into a tree.

Cars are the enemy; they are hulking, stinking, polluting monsters which are terrors at intersections. They even outrank large, snarling dogs and scattered childrens' toys that can make a sidewalk a mine field after dark.

My co-workers react ambivalently to my presence on the sidewalk. Some honk and wave, but they tire of that and leave me alone. A city editor gave me a lift home on Wednesday night, and riding a half-mile in a car didn't compare to the half-mile walk.

I suppose H. D. Thoreau would have something to say about this; quite likely, he'd cluck about persons who make partial compromises and fail to make active commitments to avoid "lives of quiet desperation."

It's never been my nature, however, to build a small cabin off in the woods. If I can make Gerald Ford a bit happier — and have a great time doing it — then I'll be satisfied.

Tomorrow...

Bowhunting draws defender

I would like to reply to the article published in the Oct. 7 issue of your paper.

You printed an article written by a woman with views against bowhunting for deer. In this article she refers to archer deer hunters as "frustrated Robin Hoods." She also states, "deer not hit in the vital (kill) area run off to an excruciating death. Reason being hunters are not humane enough to track them."

I, being an avid bowhunter, cannot agree with her in any way. Most archers spend many hours before the season practicing at targets. As for not tracking deer, archers, having such a short ranged weapon, may go an entire season without taking a shot. When they do hit a deer, they will make a furthermost effort to track and retrieve it.

Bowhunting for deer is one of the sportiest and fair methods of hunting deer. I cannot see it spoken against by someone who obviously has not done it, therefore not knowing what she is speaking against. I feel I am speaking for many other outdoorsmen also.

'The suburbs need Chicago'

So says the developer of New Century Town, who adds that urban planners don't know much...

by STEVE FORSYTH

The life of the suburbs depends on the viability of Chicago, says development expert Philip M. Klutznick. "We can't afford to let that 'turf go to hell,' because if we do we doom the suburbs just as well."

Klutznick, developer of Oakbrook Center, New Century Town near Libertyville, Park Forest, Water Tower Place and many other commercial and residential projects, relies on his business experience to deny the statements of those who predict a continued decline of the city.

The economic problems of the nation and increasing crisis of fuel supply will shape the future of the city, despite predictions that it will lose residents and become a "federal reservation" of poor and minorities, Klutznick said at a dinner meeting of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

HE TAKES ISSUE with Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission predictions of a 150,000-person decrease in Chicago population by 2000, and challenges urbanologist Pierre deVise's description of Chicago as "a dying city." Klutznick said such predictions are made solely on what has happened in the past, and do not account for changes in the future.

"I'm grateful to NIPC and Pierre that they hang crepe regularly," he said. "Few areas have been less accurate than predictions of demographic shifts."

When Klutznick was building postwar Park Forest, a planned community developed by private money, economists said south Cook County had a maximum home market of 100 units per year. "That month alone we rented 400. What was absent in those figures was that we had entered a whole new era," he said.

"Those of us in my kind of business — and you planners — can be kind of neutral between city and suburbs, because we've done pretty well at both ends. We need to try to determine what is best for the people in the future," Klutznick said.

"THERE WAS A reason for the suburbs, and there will continue to be. After the war, there was no place to quickly build accommodations the people needed." There was a desperate need for post-war housing, he said, "and we needed new manufacturing capacity."

Because the one-story plant was most efficient, they were built where there was enough room. "Then the auto took off, as if with a new life, and highways were subsidized," Klutznick said.

"I say all signs on the horizon indicate the exact opposite needs now. The President has indicated the gravity of the situation as well as he has been allowed to." France has told of a mandatory energy use cut, he said, "and we will do that in the near future, in one way or another, not because of gasoline for the cars, but because it's a matter of having an economy of some benefit to the people."

"The United States, which is importing oil, is going to have to share (with its allies) directly or indirectly, or world politics may undergo changes never seen before in such a short time. We can't much longer proceed with the idea that we can afford the most luxurious transportation in the world. That day is gone for the foreseeable future."

"Accessibility to the suburbs will become exceedingly expensive and difficult. We virtually destroyed our railroad system, and what we need to compete with the auto won't be built overnight or at any small cost," he said. "We've extended the limits of commuting so far that land is more costly an hour away than it used to be 20 minutes away."

"IT IS NO ACCIDENT in the suburbs that there are more and more townhouses and cluster developments. Detached homes are too expensive, even for a family with a $25,000 income. They can't have a free-standing home and the amenities. Our own study of recent sales shows it takes two wage-earners in a family to get a mortgage now for most people."

"There is also the problem of ecology. There is a demand for improving the environment, and it has to be met," Klutznick said.

'There is also the problem of ecology. There is a demand for improving the environment and it has to be met . . .'

— Philip M. Klutznick, urban developer

"The suburbs are inheriting all the sins of the city as they grow," Klutznick said, quoting FBI statistics that show suburban crime rates have increased by 9 per cent, while crime in the cities had a 1 per cent decline in 1973.

"We have to quit bulldozing good land and reuse land in the cities." That will require some changes in land values, he said, but reusing blighted land has several advantages, including economy of mass transportation.

ALTHOUGH HE HAS retired as chairman of the Urban Investment and Development Co., Klutznick is continuing his work in an advisory capacity. In addition to his downtown multi-purpose Water Tower Place development, Klutznick spoke about future plans in Fox Valley, Orland Park and three other suburban sites. He also is adviser for the massive "Chicago 21" redevelopment plan.

He says free-standing new towns are not the answer for the needs of the future. "New Century Town is no better than Chicago," he said. "But when they want to understand what life is, they still come to Chicago."

"No suburb or new town in commuting distance of Chicago can live without the activities of the great city," he said, citing recreation, business, culture, government, education, art, music and others.

"You can't find these all over the suburbs."

A Sonny-Cher reconciliation? No way

NEW YORK—If you are looking for Sonny and Cher to get back together again, at least professionally, forget it. There won't be any encores for this couple — on or off stage.

Industry sources and friends of Cher say the split-up between the two performers was so bitter that Cher will not make any guest appearances on Sonny's new show, "The Sonny Comedy Revue" on ABC.

"She won't be appearing on his show," said a close personal friend of Cher's, who declined to let his name be used. "But she wishes Sonny all the success in the world, really."

The friend added he did not expect that Sonny would make any appearances on Cher's upcoming TV special or new variety series on CBS in 1975, both of which were announced recently. The friend also said Cher would drop her married name, Bono, and would be called only by her first name.

ALTHOUGH Sonny Bono has been regarded as the business part of the singing team, Cher has been considered by many critics to be the real talent, especially as a comedienne.

One only had to watch Sonny's opening show to see how desperate he and his producers were for a replacement for his wife. The opening monolog and ensuing performances were geared for Cher. It was a bit tasteless.

The real problem with Sonny's show is not that it's Cher-less, but that Blye and Beard have saddled Sonny with that all too familiar Blye and Beard sugar-coated package. No matter what those two guys do, everything looks like the old Andy Williams show — and the ratings make that point clear.

EVERY PARENT who wants his son to be a football hero should turn on Monday night's ABC News closeup on "Danger in Sports: Paying the Price." It could change his mind.

ABC reports that every year more than 800,000 youths are injured on the high school gridirons. Although some of these injuries are caused by faulty equipment, many stem from football coaches who foster playing techniques that can kill or cripple for life.

NOTES: "GE Theater" is back on television this season with more prime drama specials. The first is "Things in Their Season," scheduled as a 90-minute original by John Gay on Nov. 27 on the CBS network. Patricia Neal and Ed Flanders star in this play about a family running a modern farm, emphasizing the role of the wife-mother.

That successful British series, "Upstairs, Downstairs," will be back on the "Masterpiece Theater" program of Public Broadcasting Service beginning Nov. 3. There will be 13 new episodes about the wealthy British Bellamy family and its servants. The first series ended with the death of Edward VII; the new series goes on from 1910 into the pre-World War I period.

An NBC News three-hour program for Jan. 9 will deal with the many facets of the current changing relationship between men and women.

"Captain Kangaroo," the CBS morning program for children run by Bob Keeshan, begins its 20th in October. The initial broadcast was on Oct. 3, 1955. Some original viewers are parents now.

"Midnight Cowboy," a 1969 movie that won an Oscar as best picture of the year, has been acquired by ABC for broadcasting this season, with, of course, a laundering of certain incidents not suitable for the home screen.

Doing some un-soliciting

Can I get my money back if I return an item that I purchased from a door-to-door salesman?

Yes, if this was an unsolicited sales call and that item cost you $25 or more. You must notify the seller of your cancellation of the sale. You must return it in the same condition as when it was received, within three business days from the date of purchase. A salesman who sells a consumer a product at the buyer's home is obligated by law to give that client a receipt stating notice of such a right of cancellation.

Mrs. Jean Thomma, counselor

Her concern the welfare of all students

COUNSELING STUDENTS on college placement and financial aid is only part of Jean Thomma's job as a counselor at St. Viator High School, where she is the first woman to hold that position. Here she talks over college possibilities with John McShea, a student. She also helps young men solve their personal problems.

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Jean Thomma has an open, helpful, friendly way about her. That's a real asset for Mrs. Thomma works as a high school counselor. Specifically in the school of social studies at St. Viator High School for boys, Arlington Heights.

(St. Viator is organized into four separate academic areas, social studies being one of them.)

Young in both years (she's 26) and appearance, she has accumulated experience that belies her age, as does her obvious maturity.

"It is more important to be human and kind than to follow strict rules," she says of working with high school boys.

BEFORE COMING to St. Viator Jean worked with high school and college students as admissions counselor for her alma mater, Mundelein College. Her position entailed traveling throughout eight states, visiting high schools and junior colleges and attending career nights. She also participated in numerous workshops and seminars, followed educational trends and reviewed backgrounds of students and the kinds of colleges they choose to attend.

On the job she also interviewed prospective college students and provided academic counseling. As she grew in experience, Jean Thomma became concerned about the kind of training that admissions personnel were receiving across the country, and decided to look into it.

WITH CONNIE CARRA, assistant director of admissions at Loyola University, Jean discussed the possibility of setting up a statewide program that hopefully would lead to uniform certification of admissions counselors. The two of them eventually coordinated an institute for admissions counselors with from zero to five years experience in the field. About 40 persons participated in the program sponsored by the Illinois Association of College Admissions Counselors and held at Northwestern University in Evanston.

(A member of IACAC, Jean also belongs to the Association of Chicago Area Catholic Colleges and Univesities Admissions Counselors and to the Illinois Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.)

The participants completed an initial evaluation this past summer, and now plan an in-depth study of the undertaking, Mrs. Thomma reported.

FROM WORKING WITH all women students at Mundelein College, Jean now has shifted to helping young men of high school age, but she sees no significant differences in their aspirations, and she hasn't changed her working methods.

"I have the same concern for their welfare," she said.

Part of a six-member counseling team, Jean is the first woman to join the St. Viator counseling staff. She advises about 300 students from freshman to senior level, the same boys staying with her throughout their school years. She is personally responsible as an adviser to 43 homeroom seniors.

Jean sees each boy once a week to help in any area ranging from academic to personal problems. In this way each young man has an adviser other than a teacher or parent to listen to him.

"No one slides by unnoticed because someone here really knows him," she pointed out.

FOR MRS. THOMMA, helping students individually and personally is a rewarding job. She is impressed by how sincere young students are, and how much they desire to do well academically and to succeed personally and socially.

"If by the senior year a student has been brought correctly to that point, he has widened his mind, is aware of the needs of others and can make good and lasting decisions," she commented.

Jean Thomma does her best to bring her students to this point. However, if they need further help, she refers them to another agency.

To help young men get ahead academically, Jean introduced the Advanced Acceptance Program and the Catholic College Coordinating Council Admissions Program to St. Viator. These programs help high school students to find out what colleges across the country will accept them and where they can get scholarships. She works personally with her seniors to find college placement and financial aid.

MRS. THOMMA BELIEVES in equality for women especially in jobs. Married to a systems programmer for U. S. Steel, she and her husband, Gregory, share home chores and take joy in each other's success.

She thinks Chicago is a wonderful town with "great night life," and she loves to travel. Self-improvement is also important to Jean. She worked five years as an orthodontic dental assistant, served as young citizens coordinator for the campaign committee for P. J. Cullerton, and was a tutor-counselor in a neighborhood Youth Corps in Worcester, Mass., her home state, where she grew up with eight brothers and sisters. She's now pursuing a master's in counselor education.

As Jean counsels the young people, long term satisfaction is where life's at.

Women's Commission pushes 1975 as year for women, new ERA suit filed

The Illinois Commission on the Status of Women will ask Gov. Dan Walker and Mayor Daley to proclaim 1975 as International Women's Year.

The proclamations would carry out a resolution of the United Nations General Assembly designating next year for intense focus on the progress of women around the world.

The Illinois Commission approved the idea after hearing a report at its October meeting by Patricia Hutar, the United States representative to the U.N. Commission on the Status of Women, which proposed the idea of the International Women's Year.

Theme of the Year will be "Equality, Development and Peace."

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Hutar, many American women leaders are often surprised to learn that "the feminist movement was not invented here." She said that when Betty Friedan, "mother" of the American feminist movement, published her first book proclaiming the equality of women, women in other countries had already been long at the task of seeking equality.

However, Mrs. Hutar quickly added, in many other countries of the world women are far behind the U.S. in achieving social and economic equality.

Mrs. Hutar recalled her experience as a delegate to a conclave on women and population — the first meeting of women in the General Assembly of the United Nations and "the first time that the relationship between women and population was officially recognized."

THREE BARRIERS to the economic and social progress of women in other countries emerged during this conference, Mrs. Hutar said:

Lack of opportunitities for women to achieve status other than as mothers; high infant mortality rates, causing families to desire many children; and the high status of sons, encouraging women to continue bearing children until they have a boy.

On the other hand, Mrs. Hutar pointed out, countries such as Russia, Brazil and Argentina are "pro-natalist," desiring to increase their populations, with the result that extraordinary benefits are accorded to women to encourage childbirth. For example, she said, in Russia the goal is for working women to get a two to three-year paid maternity leave.

The Illinois Commission, which is chaired by Rep. Susan Catania, R-Chicago, is currently working to eliminate sex discrimination in the Illinois Revised Statutes. The task, being directed by Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, is considered necessary with or without passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

REPRESENTATIVES Chapman and Catania are plaintiffs in a new lawsuit which was filed last week challenging Illinois' three-fifths majority requirement for ratifying amendments to the U.S. Constitution, such as ERA.

The new suit, similar to one filed last year and dismissed by the court, names Senators Dawn Clark Netsch and Esther Saperstein, both D-Chicago, as plaintiffs, and Senate President William C. Harris as a defendant.

According to the plaintiffs, the new suit was brought because the three-judge panel had taken no action on a request to reinstate the old suit. The judges had ruled they could not decide the case because the Senate had not voted on ERA.

But the Senate did vote shortly thereafter, approving ERA by a simple majority.

ACCORDING TO Sen. Netsch, the new suit makes it clear that "the Senate is now in a similar posture (as the House)," and that "we're taking on Harris." She said the suit also "narrowed the relief being asked for."

The court is simply being asked to declare the Illinois three-fifths provision unconstitutional, Sen. Netsch said, adding that Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has already issued a legal opinion to that effect.

The plaintiffs want a decision before January, when the legislature adjourns. If it does not come, the ERA issue will have to be reintroduced and run the entire legislative circuit all over in the next legislative session.

Her lucky stars

Most of my life I have been a secret reader of my daily horoscope. However, at the same time, I have publically pooh-poohed the whole business. I've relied mostly on reason as the basis for my argument against the horoscope, but at the same time I am unreasonably worried about missing it.

At last I have finally broken my old horoscope habit. I did it by accident. It was on a day that I was scheduled to make a plane trip. Now I don't fly so often that I am without any qualms about it. In fact, I'm usually downright nervous. That particular morning I read my horoscope with a heightened interest. My future was at stake.

It was just as I had feared. The message for Aries (that's me) was this: "You are accident-prone today. Avoid traveling." Of course I wanted to cash in my plane ticket instantly. Then, for some unknown reason, I read the message for my husband's sign. He was going to be on that plane with me. "Your love for travel is best fulfilled today. Don't forget to tip the skycap."

I felt better immediately and made the flight. While in the air, I thought that if I were going to go down, I'd be taking about 180 people with me. Since there was no way they could all be Aries, I decided I had better confine my worries to solo trips to the supermarket.

FROM THAT DAY ON I have continued to read the daily horoscope. However, I now concentrate on other people's messages more than my own. The contradictions are most reassuring. I have picked out wallpaper on days when my sign indicated a disagreeable mate, but my husband is assured of his continued good humor. I have sorted socks on days when he should be more self-sufficient, but I have had an unplotted burst of domesticity. I have won a little money at the track when I was supposed to "play the odds," but on a day when every other astrological sign, through one interpretation or another, got the same message. (Everyone knows what that would do to track betting.)

All of this has made me wonder how astrologers plot charts for the masses. I'm convinced that they operate principally on Murphy's Law: If anything can go wrong, it will. If that precept fails, and things weren't so bad after all, I think they hope we'll see what's in store for us tomorrow — after we thank our lucky stars. However, I've learned it's easier to thank everyone else's.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

New fashions, new faces

Fashion

by Karen

The big look, the droop, or whatever you prefer to call it, is the fashion trend for fall and winter. The collections from both Europe and the United States are dramatic and that calls for a major overhaul of your makeup techniques and supplies.

Those wide, full flowing coats and capes, longer skirts and dresses and clothes that swirl, move and whirl with the body are the headliners. Romantic ethnic touches such as hooded capes, soft ruffles plus the drama of boots finish off the look.

To appear balanced in the new shapes, a whole rethinking of proportion and color in makeup and hair is needed. The change from skinny uptight clothes to softer free-flowing models dictates a change in the volume and shape of hair and the way makeup is used:

COLOR, TOO, can be a problem as most of the clothes are being shown in deep somber tones of gray, wine, green and in black.

Here are some suggestions from Pablo of Elizabeth Arden. "Now that fashion is taking a new twist," says Pablo, "woman should enjoy the challenge that her face can live up to. Makeup and hair are unstudied, even nonchalant, but the whole look should be created with a great deal of accuracy."

"Hair is there for a purpose, so is rouge," Pablo continued. "A woman should think about her makeup and develop a chemistry of ingredients that work together to create a special look."

In three words, the secret is color, texture, and volume. This simple formula can make a big difference in the way you look.

COLOR COMES first . . . because bright color — and lots of it — is what saves the day this fall. Color is an accessory we can't be without. To play against the dark somber tones, Pablo suggests warm bright apricot and peach. "Polish cheeks like an apple and use lipcolor that is never garish but always definitely there. For day, the eye is shadowed in deep green or soft taupy gray. For evening, peach and apricot bronzed to a lush deeper hue looks romantic."

Color is soft, warm and vibrant but pure and true, never murky.

With fall's range of textures . . .wools, nubby tweeds, velvets and satin. . . there's an interplay between what you wear and what you put on your face. Try the allure of velvet with a smooth buffed makup. Pair soft satin with a polished face. Subtle lacings of pearl, gold and silver highlight new makeup textures. The come-back of powder and the matte face look mingle well with furs or cashmeres.

LOOK AT YOUR new silhouette from head to toe. You may need more hair volume for balance. Hair length should be just a bit above the shoulder with a slightly wider shape and free flowing soft waves. If you color your hair, try a look that is slightly lighter in front and darker in the back.

Sit down in front of your mirror and try something new.

Today's little boys: a look at their futures

Today's little girls can thank heaven for today's little boys.

The boys will grow up to be better looking, richer and smarter. This is not to say that the same isn't in the future for the girls. But the people who've researched the man of the next century haven't profiled the women of tomorrow. Research on her is in the works, however.

The researchers studied the man of the future first because traditionally he's the breadwinner and plans the family insurance and finances.

He will be better looking probably because with a shorter work week and with greater emphasis on leisure, he certainly will have a less worried or shopworn look.

Chances are, with medical advances, he will feel better too.

He will live longer. His average life span will increase to 70 years compared with today's 67.

His earning power will have increased greatly by the year 2000. It's estimated his average annual incomt will be $33,000, compared with today's $12,100.

This is a part of the man of tomorrow picture drawn by W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board of the Pioneer Western Corporation, a national financial, investment and insurance conglomerate with headquarters in Clearwater, Fla. Bowler's researchers did the study, a spokesman said, because the firms are interested in getting more young people active in the business scene.

These other findings were in the man of tomorrow profile.

He will stay in school longer, five years or more of higher education as opposed to four today.

He will marry later. The average age today is 23.1 years. In the year 2000, the average will be 24.7 years.

His job? More emphasis on financial services, a big field for the 21st century. Bowler predicts more people will look for professional help in budget planning, investments and family money matters.

He will represent about 55 per cent of the work force, down from today's 61 per cent.

Some men will work in urban superstructures which will be live-work-play buildings. The urban high rises will attract a large number of singles.

If married, he probably will live in cluster housing, those planned unit developments located on city fringes. This will mean living, working and shopping in suburbs, yet close enough to the city to enjoy the social and cultural opportunities.

Bowler says that what all this means to next century's women is that the men will be more attractive than today's — and also possibly harder to catch.

Heather Lee Turnbaugh is the first arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Gregory G. Turnbaugh, 860 Old Willow Rd., Wheeling. The 8 pound 1½ ounce baby girl was born Sept. 25. Her grandparents are the Ralph Ports, Grafton, Wis., and the Howard Turnbaughs, Chicago.

Katren Elise Mueller makes a boy and a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick C. Mueller, 421 S. Main, Mount Prospect. Born Sept. 25, Katren weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces. She was welcomed home by Evan Charles, 5. Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Duane H. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Mueller, all of Arlington Heights.

Christopher Ryan Woodward is the third child for Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Earl Woodward, Elk Grove Village. The baby boy tipped the scales at 8 pounds 9½ ounces on Sept. 25 and joins Ann Marie, 6, and Craig, 4, at home. The W. E. Wightmans and Mrs. L. A. Woodward, all of Oklahoma City, are the children's grandparents.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Michelle Lyn Petersen is the No. 1 child for Mr. and Mrs. Allan Roy Petersen, 1433 Kingston, Schaumburg. Born Sept. 30, Michelle weighed in at 6 pounds 2 ounces. Her grandparents are the Lawrence Hasemanns, Harvey, and the Roy Petersens, Elmwood Park.

GOP women's tea

The Women's Republican Club of the 10th Congressional District will host a tea to honor women in politics Thursday at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Donald Schiller of Evanston.

The special guest will be Bonnie Young, wife of Congressman Samuel H. Young, R-10th.

Other guests attending should call Mrs. Sanford Miller, 475-7689.

Pamela Kolker married in garden

A garden setting complete with duck pond was the setting for the wedding of Pamela Kolker and Robert C. Anderson Sept. 15.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kolker, 3102 Swallow Ln., Rolling Meadows, and the groom is the son of Mrs. R. C. Anderson of Skokie.

The ceremony, which took place on the grounds of Villa Olivia in Bartlett, was performed by the Rev. Nick Christoff of International Village.

The bride chose a white satin gown with sheer yoke and a high neck. The gown and train were trimmed in cotton lace which was repeated on the bride's headpiece and floor-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink roses, carnations, orchids and ivy.

MAID OF HONOR was Donna Marie Miller of Rolling Meadows and bridesmaids were Kathy Kolker, sister of the bride, and Jody Boyer, a cousin of the bride from Peoria.

The attendants were gowned in aqua blue halter dresses with matching capes. They carried aqua carnations.

Best man was Joseph J. Witry of Woodstock, and ushers were John and Ronald Kolker, brother and uncle of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Anderson

The ceremony was followed by a luncheon reception at the Villa, after which the newlyweds departed for Vail, Colo. They are now living in Hoffman Estates.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Forest View High School, is employed by Data Pathing Inc. of Palatine. The groom, who was graduated from Regis College, Denver, is employed by Unlimited Printing and Systems of Rolling Meadows.

Next on the agenda

ARLINGTON LA LECHE LEAGUE

The art of breastfeeding and overcoming difficulties will be discussed at this month's meeting of the Arlington Heights La Leche League.

Mrs. Carol Syracuse, group leader, will conduct the meeting tomorrow, 8 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Pat Bielecki, 1306 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights. She may be contacted at 392-2142 for further information. Babies are always welcome.

Provided the proper information, help and encouragement, most women can successfully breastfeed a baby. LaLeche League's purpose is to fill this need. Group leaders are available for counseling and books from the extensive library are on loan.

SOUTH CHURCH WOMEN

The South Church Woman's Guild will hold its October luncheon tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the church.

The program will be the Extensioneers' Kitchen Band, under the direction of Corinne Clark. The performers will play a variety of unique instruments, dressed in colorful, way-back-when costumes.

Ruth Circle is serving the luncheon with Mrs. James B. French as hostess. Reservations can be made with the church office, 253-0501, 501 S. Emerson St., Mount Prospect.

KINGSWOOD METHODIST WOMEN

United Methodist Women of Kingswood Church will meet tomorrow, 8 p.m., at the church, 401 Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Sculptor Lois Huth will demonstrate and discuss her work. The meeting is guest night.

COUNTRYSIDE ORT

Countryside Chapter of Women's American ORT will meet tomorrow, 12:30 p.m., at the Schaumburg Library on Library Lane. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Carol Waltman, founder of Reach to Recovery. A movie entitled "Where We Are" will be shown. It concerns breast tumors.

Persons seeking further information may call Mrs. L. Larson at 529-8596.

ALPHA PHI

Northwest Suburban Chapter of Alpha Phi will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Becker, 207 W. Hintz, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Harry Carl will be co-hostess.

Connie Gray, of the Arlington Heights Stretch and Sew Store, will present a demonstration on the problems and joys of sewing with knits.

All area alumnae are invited to call Pam McCormick at 825-7651 for further information.

WOMEN IN CONSTRUCTION

O'Hare Suburban Chapter of Women in Construction will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow at the Navarone Restaurant, 1901 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Patricia W. Mabbatt, assistant vice president and trust officer at the First National Bank and Trust Company of South Bend.

Members may contact Marilyn Birr, 697-2640, for reservations.

PALATINE JUNIORS

Where does round steak come from? This and other questions concerning beef and the variety of cuts available will be answered tomorrow at 8 p.m. The American Home Committee of Palatine Junior Woman's Club has invited Joe Mangano, meat manager from the Palatine Jewel, to demonstrate for members and their guests.

The meeting will be held at the Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Barry Baliant, Mrs. Richard Fallahee, Mrs. Frederick Best, Mrs. Ronald Cwik, Mrs. Larry Sample and Mrs. William Taylor.

Women interested in further information about the club may call Mrs. John Bihun, membership chairman, at 358-6955.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Mrs. Dennis Dickison, a past president of the Arlington Heights Garden Club, will demonstrate terrarium-making at the meeting of the Chicago Suburban Northwest Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma. The meeting and workshop, to be held at the home of Mrs. Karl Kubon, Arlington Heights, will begin at 8 p.m. today. Mrs. Dickison is co-hostess.

Alumni, new to the area, are welcome and may call 956-7436 for further information.

Palatine Juniors plan evening treasure hunt

Palatine Juniors and their guests will participate in an evening of treasure hunting Saturday as they reminisce about "Treasures from the Nifty Fifties."

Dressing as they did way back when, the Juniors will gather for map distribution, then proceed with clues for the hunt.

They will meet eventually at a "mystery" restaurant for dancing to oldies in a juke box. A midnight breakfast will follow.

Mrs. Rudy Andrews, social chairman, is organizing the affair. Those wanting more information may call her at 438-8159.

Named co-chairmen for ways and means

Nancy Korzeniewski and Diane Jensen have been appointed co-ways and means chairmen by Hoffman Estates Woman's Club President Marge Lindberg.

Mrs. Korzeniewski is a member of the village public information committee and recently chaired a Hoffman Estates opinion survey of area residents.

Mrs. Jensen, a former trustee of Hoffman Estates, was chairman of the public information committee and headed up the environmental commission, through whose efforts plantings and trees were put in the Hoffman Plaza shopping center. She also had the idea for the 15th anniversary celebration.

The two co-chairmen recently presented their first project, a beer and brat fest, held in conjunction with an art fair and rummage sale.

Future tentative plans include the community calendar, a project the club has sponsored for the past 13 years, a breakfast with Santa Claus event, and a juvenile prince and princess contest.

NIU graduates wed Sept. 21

Two Northern Illinois University graduates, Kathleen Ann Schultz of Wheeling and Martin Lee Rug of Ottawa, were wed in a double ring candlight ceremony Sept. 21 in St. Joseph the Worker Church of Wheeling.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Schultz of 393 S. Meadowbrook Lane, Wheeling, and Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermet Ryg of Ottawa.

Kathleen chose a high-waisted gown with a bib of Venetian lace trimmed with a single row of buttons. Venetian lace also decorated the sleeves that ended with a flounce at the wrists. Her mantilla veil was of three lengths, blusher, finger tip and floor length. She carried a bridal bouquet of phalaenopsis, stephanotic, Sweetheart roses and ivory baby's breath.

MAID OF HONOR was Lee Ann Schultz, the bride's sister. Bridesmaids were Kris Brown, Margie Leslie and Beth Meyer, all of Chicago, and Pam Ryg, the groom's sister.

The attendants wore apricot-colored gowns styled with V-necklines, short puffy sleeves, high waists with wrap-around belts knotted in back. Their bouquets were of Abbey roses, white carnations, dried baby's breath and huckleberry greens.

Mrs. Martin Lee Ryg

Following a reception at the church for 230 guests, the newly married couple spent a week at the Hilton Head Island and Charleston, S. C., and Savannah, Ga. They are currently residing in Wheeling.

Kathleen, who is a 1970 graduate of Wheeling High School, is employed by Clarbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center in Elk Grove Village. Her husband works for Rego in Chicago.

Ways to save energy and money as well

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: With the heating season here, thought others might be interested in what I'm planning to help reduce fuel bills — and perhaps lead them to share their cost-cutting ideas.

Even though we have a humidifier connected with the furnace, I'm putting vases of water around — with dried or plastic flowers when we don't have fresh flowers in the house. I believe it will make the lower temperature at which we've set the thermostat a bit more comfortable.

Also, we've decided that when light bulbs go pfft, we'll put lower-watt bulbs in certain areas. I noticed that we'd fallen into the habit of using high-watt bulbs everywhere. It's not just the energy crisis; it ought to save us at least a little money every month. — Mrs. DeWitt Paine

Dear Dorothy: When a plant is brought in from outdoors, how does one decide whether it needs to be put in a larger pot? — Anne Correa

If the plant has grown pretty large and needs pruning, the suspicion might be that it is pot-bound. Knock the soil ball out of the pot (just tap the rim on the edge of a table) and examine it.

If there are many white roots massed around the ball, shift the plant to the next-size pot, using a mixture of one-third soil, one-third peat moss and one-third perlite to fill in the additional space. And don't forget to check whether you've brought in any insects.

Dear Dorothty: Read someplace that there were 72 million cats and dogs in this country. Now how on earth would anyone figure out a silly thing like this? — Georgia Herzog

I had a time checking this one. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz used it in a speech. He also said 340 million fish. Beats me where he got the figures!

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Being a Herald Carrier is not all work!

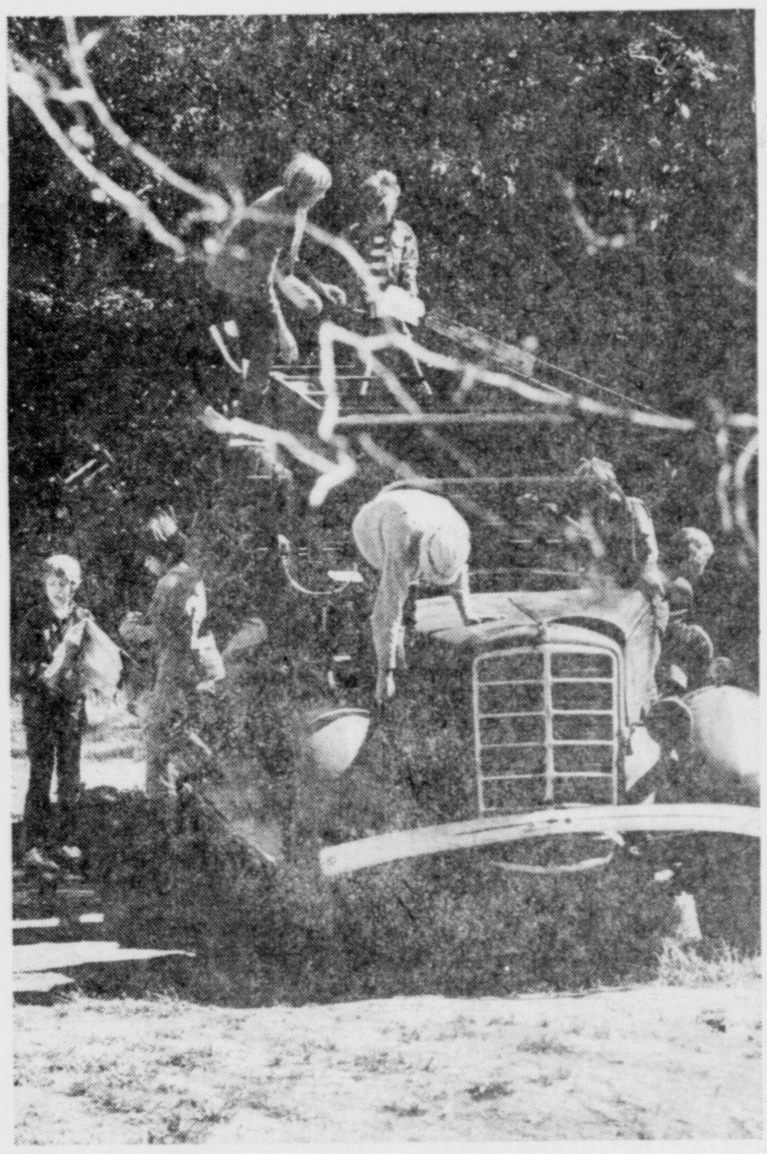

Put 275 Herald newspaper carriers, 40 parents and 15 supervisors in three buses and take them to Kelly's Day Camp and Picnic Grounds in Half Day. Add 1,000 hot dogs, 40 cases of pop, 1,000 candy bars, 400 ears of sweet corn, 300 servings of popcorn and lots of sunshine — it all equals a day full of fun and feasting!

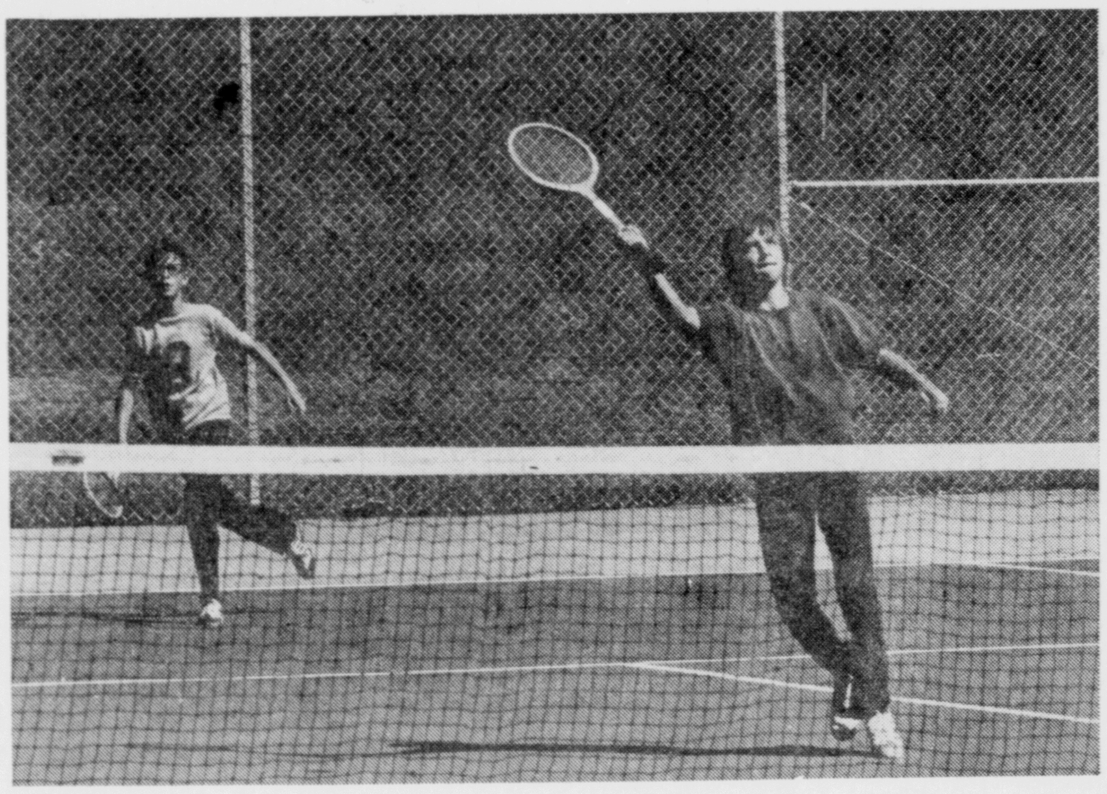

The event was Paddock Publications picnic for their newspaper carriers on Sept. 14. There were races, water balloon contests and swimming as well as tennis, volleyball, soccer and touch football games. One lucky carrier won the special door prize, a TV set.

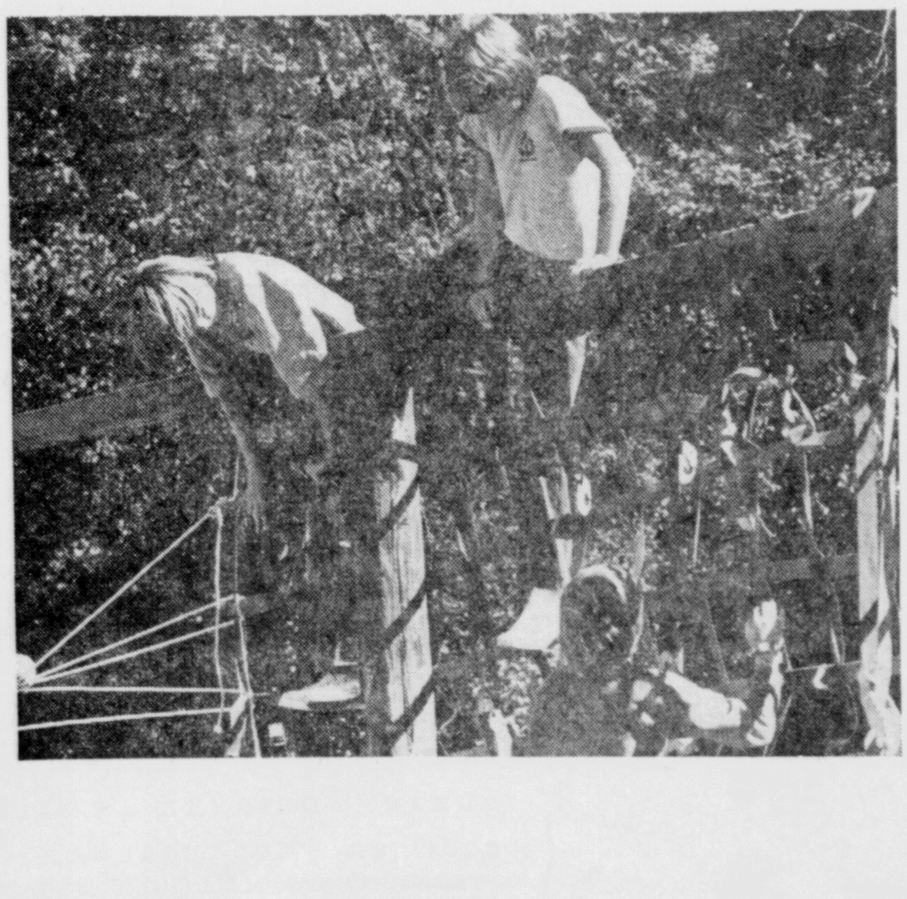

The picnic is one of many carrier activities sponsored by Paddock Publications. Earlier this year, 20 carriers took a trip to Jamaica, 50 carriers went to Six Flags and another 50 carriers visited Wisconsin Dells.

Being a Herald carrier is not all work . . . sometimes it's all play.

Harper College wrapup

Board decides to set up 'communications' panel

The Harper College Board of Trustees hopes to improve communications with the faculty, students and staff members of the college through a "joint communications committee."

The board agreed to establish the committee at its meeting Thursday after lengthy discussion of whether the broad-based committee was the appropriate way to address complaints from the faculty about poor communication with the board.

Board member Robert Rausch, who initially opposed the committee because he said it would not deal with the problems, persuaded the board that the committee be formed only until Dec. 21, the end of the first semester. At that time, Rausch said, the committee could be evaluated to see if it is solving communications problems.

RAUSCH SAID that as long as the committee would be evaluated in December he would support it because "I don't think we're going to get anything better, but I don't want to be saddled with it for the whole year."

The joint communications committee was proposed by board members Judith Troehler and Jessalyn Nicklas as an alternative to a request from the faculty senate that the faculty senate president be given a non-voting seat on the board. The board originally voted in June to grant the seat and then rescinded its action after protests from Mrs. Nicklas.

The proposal for the communications committee was first raised at the board's meeting in September. However, the issue was delayed when board member Shirley Munson asked that the board hold a committee meeting to discuss the subject.

Thursday, Mrs. Munson protested the fact that no committee meeting had been held and said she objected to a memorandum from board Pres. William Kelly telling the board members to call Mrs. Troehler with ideas for the policy.

"I think to have a proposal like this and have just a telephone link is very disappointing," Mrs. Munson said. "I think maybe we could improve communication among the board and then we can work on other communication."

$500,000 more for buildings

Harper College will add $500,000 to the amount it planned to spend on the vocational education buildings planned for the campus, to make up a shortage of funds from the state.

The board Thursday authorized the additional $500,000, to be added to the $993,700 the college had originally planned to spend as its share of the cost of the buildings. The state provides 75 per cent of the cost of community college buildings.

College Vice Pres. William Mann said the cost of the building has increased from $3,974,700 to $4,671,600 since it was originally planned. He said the state will reimburse the college the extra $500,000 when the Illinois General Assembly passes additional funds for building.

Faculty evaluations setup

Harper College will have a faculty evaluation system by Nov. 1, but it will not be used this year to give faculty members salary bonuses.

The faculty evaluation committee reported to the board Thursday that they have developed an evaluation system in which a teacher will evaluate himself and be evaluated by fellow teachers, students and administrators.

The committee said the final system would be presented to the faculty at a general meeting Oct. 22 and will go into effect Nov. 1.

The faculty evaluation system has been a source of continuing controversy at the college for several years. Last year, the board suspended the practice of awarding salary bonuses to outstanding teachers when administrators reported that the old system had not worked.

The faculty has consistently opposed the practice of giving teachers salary bonuses based on evaluation. Members of the faculty senate have argued that the system results in bad feeling and unnecessary competitions among faculty members.

The board has agreed to give no salary bonuses this year, but will reconsider the decision next spring for the 1975-76 school year.

'Town meetings' this year

The Harper College Board will try to "bring the college to the people" this year in a series of meetings in various Northwest suburban communities.

The board Thursday approved a community relations program which proposes meetings by the board in each of the communities during the course of the year. The meetings would give citizens information about the college programs and plans.

In addition, Patrick Lewis, director of institutional communications, said he will invite specific guests from civic organizations to attend regular Harper board meetings. Lewis also recommended that the board hold seminars on special subjects such as the economy or the environment.

MANAGEMENT
EXECUTIVE RECRUITER ENTRY LEVEL
We aren't going to tell you a lot of different stories about how easy the job is or that you can make $25,000 in your first year. What we are going to say is — if you want a job that offers hard work, a job with a challenge, a job with a future, a job where you can earn $12-$15,000 the first year, then let's discuss your future. We promise nothing but hard work, and self-achieved monetary rewards. All we ask is that you have a desire to succeed. If you feel that you are this type of person, call

Notice of Pre-annexation Hearing

BEFORE THE MAYOR AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT

Public hearing before the Mayor and Board of Trustees regarding a pre-annexation agreement for property located on Kensington Road, just west of Wheeling Road, adjacent to East Avenue of Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Illinois, will be held at 8:00 p.m. on November 5, 1974 at the Village Hall, 112 East Northwest Highway, Mount Prospect, Illinois.

The text of the annexation agreement follows:

ANNEXATION AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, American National Bank and Trust Company of Waukegan, not individually but as Trustee under Trust No. 60, hereinafter referred to as the "Owner," is the owner of the following legally described land and territory:

Lots 1000, 1001, 1002 and Outlot "A" in Brickman Manor 1st Addition Unit No. 6 being a subdivision of part of the East half of the Southwest quarter of Section 27, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, together with the South 241.56 feet of the West 30 feet of Outlot "H" in Brickman Manor 1st Addition Unit No. 1 being a subdivision of part of the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 27 and part of the West half of the West half of the Southwest quarter of Section 26, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois, located on Kensington Road, just West of Wheeling Road, adjacent to East Avenue of Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Illinois, hereinafter referred to as the "Subject Property"; and

WHEREAS, the VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, a municipal corporation organized under the laws of the State of Illinois, hereinafter referred to as "Village" has the power to enter into an Annexation Agreement as set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the Owner has heretofore filed a petition to annex the Subject Property to the Village contingent on the provisions contained in this Agreement; and

WHEREAS, both parties believe it to be in the best interests of both the Village and the Owner that the Subject Property be annexed; and

WHEREAS, it is beneficial to both the Owner and the Village that the project be constructed in accord with the plan contained herein;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed by and between the Village and the Owner as follows:

1. That upon execution of this Agreement by all the parties hereto, the Village will act upon the Owner's written petition for annexation and will annex the Subject Property.

2. That the Village shall pass such ordinances as will enable the Subject Property to be zoned R-4 (Residential Development District), under the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Mount Prospect and will permit the construction of one thirteen (13) story building, as a special use, having inside parking for eighty-four (84) cars, two (2) stories of commercial office space, consisting of approximately 61,000 sq. feet, and eleven (11) stories of eighty-two (82) multi-family units comprising forty-two (42) one-bedroom 848 sq. ft. units and forty (40) two-bedroom 1050 sq. ft. units. The Owner will provide grade level parking for an additional two hundred nineteen (219) cars — which building together with its appurtenances shall be constructed in general conformity with the plans attached hereto and hereby made a part hereof as Exhibit A.

3. That the Owner will execute a plat of resubdivision of the Subject Property substantially in the form as attached hereto and hereby made a part hereof as Exhibit B.

4. That the Owner will cause Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank of Wheeling, Illinois, not individually but as Trustee under Trust No. 71-134 dated September 2, 1971, to annex the following legally described land and territory into the Village of Mount Prospect:

Lots 1030, 1031 and Outlot "B" in Brickman Manor First Addition Unit No. 6 being a Subdivision of part of the East half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 27, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois, located on South side of Euclid Avenue just West of Wheeling Road and adjacent to East Avenue of Randhurst Shopping Center of Mount Prospect, Illinois, and hereinafter referred to as "the Unit No. 6 properties."

5. That the Village shall pass such ordinances as will enable the Unit No. 6 properties to be zoned and classified in the B-3 Business (Retail and Service) District under the terms of the Mount Prospect Zoning Ordinance.

6. That the Owner will cause the title holder of the building known as the "Randwood Apartments" to take the necessary steps to eliminate the outstanding violations cited by the Village of Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Bureau and to otherwise maintain said building in conformity with the Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Code and other applicable laws.

7. That, pursuant to the plans reflected upon the Utility Exhibit attached hereto and hereby made a part hereof as Exhibit C, the Owner shall install and the Village shall receive the ownership of certain water mains and certain trunk sewer lines as required to serve the aforesaid special use to be constructed upon the Subject Property.

8. That all provisions, conditions, and regulations set forth in this Agreement and the Exhibits to which it refers shall supercede all Village ordinances, codes, and regulations that are in conflict therewith as they may apply to the Subject Property. Where this Agreement is silent, the Village ordinances shall apply and control.

9. That this Agreement shall be effective for a term of five (5) years from date hereof and that thereafter all properties in the Planned Unit Development shall become subject to Village ordinances.

A. It shall bind heirs and successors and assigns, the Village, its corporate officials, successors in office, and be enforceable by order of court pursuant to the provisions of the statutes made and provided.

B. Nothing herein shall in any way prevent alienation or sale of the Subject Property or portion thereof except that said sale shall be subject to the provisions hereof and of the Planned Unit Development ordinance of the Village of Mount Prospect and the new Owner shall be both benefited and bound by the conditions and restrictions herein and therein expressed.

10. That, in the event any provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed invalid, then the invalidity of said provisions shall not affect the validity of any other provisions hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have entered their hands and seals, this _____ day of _____, 1974, the same being done after public hearing, notice, and statutory requirements having been fulfilled.

Hersey, Schaumburg record dramatic wins

Extra point is difference in headliner

by KEITH REINHARD

Like two Herculean warriors entwined in a muscle-rippling, weapon-flashing battle to the death, Buffalo Grove and hosting Hersey went to the wire on the gridiron Friday night.

It was a war between two passionately motivated, highly skilled, well-trained armies. The only unfortunate aspect was that one had to lose.

To the victor went the spoils, and in this case it was Hersey almost surely gaining a fourth successive berth in the Mid-Suburban League Super Bowl with a dramatic 14-13 triumph.

The Huskies were indeed impressive in victory, flaunting their multifaceted attack and tenacious defense from whistle to gun as they came from behind twice to capture this all-important North Division showdown among all the splendor of a Homecoming extravaganza and before an anxious, overflow crowd of nearly 6,000.

But it would be an injustice to say the Bison were any less impressive. Their coach, Grant Blaney, when asked of his team's chances nearly a week before the crucial game and in light of an overwhelming Hersey statistical and traditional edge, commented, "We don't go into any game not expecting to win . . . this one is no exception."

His youthful school nearly pulled off the big heist too. On the tally sheet the two teams emerged about as even as the 4-0 records both brought into the fray and the Bison certainly lost no respect, even in defeat, from the Huskie camp.

Tom Barnard

"I'm just happy to win," exclaimed an elated hosting coach Joe Gliwa in the post-game locker room, his shirt soaked more from anxiety than the light drizzle falling in the last stages of the contest. "Our scouting reports had Buffalo Grove pegged as one fine football team and they more than lived up to expectations tonight.

"The only way we could beat them was with a 100 per cent effort from all our kids." Gliwa continued, "We got it and I'm thankful."

Blaney projected similar sentiments, unnecessarily trying to personally shoulder the blame for defeat: "I couldn't have asked for any more than our kids or my staff contributed to this game and I feel mostly bad about the loss for all of their sakes . . . like I let them down."

He didn't, of course. What few breaks did get doled out in the contest were pretty much divided up the middle. Beyond the big plays that did and didn't come off, the individual heroics that did and didn't prove decisive, it was mostly a case of one excellent football team barely beating another.

In the beginning, Bison John Arendall stunned everyone by picking up the opening kickoff and cutting loose on an electrifying 90-yard jaunt to paydirt. Dave Smithern booted the extra point and the visitors had a 7-0 lead with only 14 seconds gone on the clock.

Hersey came right back. Starting on their own 33, they advanced quickly back to midfield on quarterback Scott Topczewski's 19-yard scamper. Steve Block picked up 11 more on a run and two subsequent penalties furthered the advance to Grove's doorstep.

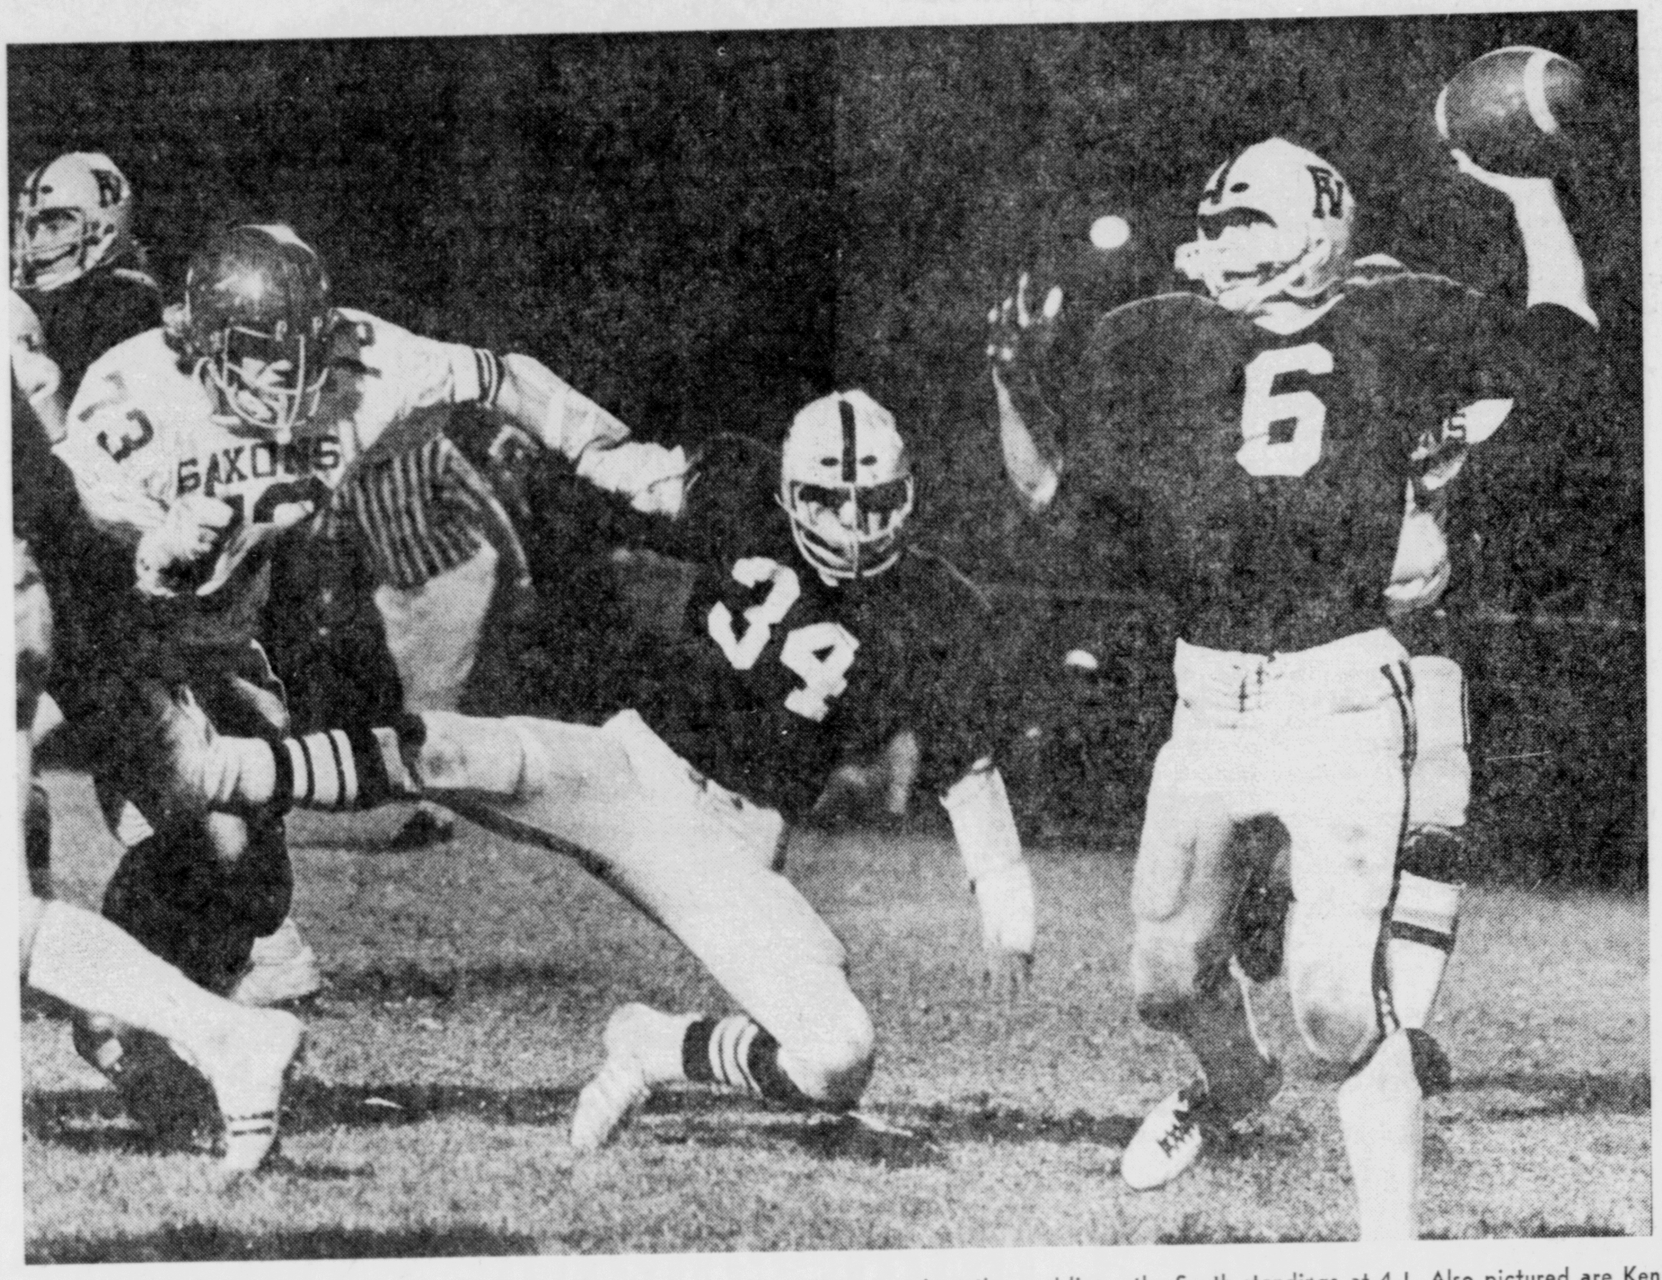

From there it was Jeff Forster plowing over from the one. Tom Barnard connected on the conversion kick to knot things at 7-7 only three-and-a-half minutes into the game.

Another kickoff and, boom, another 90-yard touchdown run. This time Arendall handed off to Ben Orcutt, who took off down the left sideline enroute to the enemy endzone.

But this time the TD was called back, wiped out by a holding call. The inwiped out by a holding call. The infraction also marked the advent of two defensive units asserting themselves and the remainder of the first half was scoreless.

Buffalo Grove did have one good opportunity to break the deadlock prior to intermission when, with the help of a diving 33-yard pass completion from Smi-

LOOKING FOR TWO. Forest View quarterback Jim Petran sets his sights on Bob Strasser and gets ready to rifle him the ball for a two-point conversion with just 59 seconds left in the game Friday. Strasser made a diving catch at the goal line to tie Schaumburg, 37-37, and send the game into overtime. The Saxons went on to win, 43-37, on a 15-yard run by Russ Zonca, putting them on top of the South standings at 4-1. Also pictured are Ken Jaffke of the Saxons and Dave Ennes (34) of Forest View. Saxons nip Forest View in overtime

by ART MUGALIAN

Fred Lussow just shook his head and stared down at the floor in the Forest View locker room. What he was about to say was maybe the hardest thing he's had to say in a long time.

"Schaumburg is a good team — they played excellent football," the Falcon coach said. "They must have something going for them if they can keep winning games like this."

Coach Bob Ferguson's Schaumburg Saxons had nipped Forest View Friday in a remarkable contest, moving the Saxons into sole possession of first place in the Mid-Suburban League South at 4-1.

The Saxons won, 43-37, in a nerve-racking overtime battle, the first in each school's history and only the second such game in the annals of MSL football. It came on the Falcons' homecoming and it set a league record for most points in one game by both clubs.

The game was decided in the "extra period" when Saxon quarterback Russ Zonca scored from 15 yards out on an option keeper and Forest View was stopped by Schaumburg's tough defensive line on a fourth and goal from the one.

But there was enough action and excitement in the first four quarters to fill three ball games. An explosive Saxon offense, led by Zonca and junior halfback Scott Mielke, put 31 points on the board in the first half, and a determined Forest View team stormed back for three touchdowns in the second half, mainly on the strong passing arm of quarterback Jim Petran.

"Our running game was going really well," said Ferguson, "so we stayed with it. Zonca is a helluva quarterback, a great runner. I wasn't about to put the ball in the air."

So the first half saw:

- Zonca score on an 11-yard option keeper.
- Mielke break tackles and swivel-hip across the goal line for a 19-yard TD romp.
- Roger Biver kick four extra points and a 22-yard field goal.
- Fullback Tom Martino blast over from the two-yard line.
- Receiver Jeff Boji gather in a perfectly lofted nine-yard touchdown pass from Zonca with just 13 seconds left in the half.

The 31-15 margin the Saxons took into the intermission seemed safe, but Petran and company came out fighting in the second half.

Petran, who had tossed a 36-yard screen pass to Dave Matzl for a first-quarter TD, looked to the air in the second half, despite a persistent drizzle that made the ball hard to handle. A 20-yard pass to tailback Matzl helped set up a short TD strike to split end Neil Schmidt, making the score 31-23 when Matzl ran for two.

Then with 22 seconds left in the third quarter, Petran gave to Matzl, who pounded two yards over center for this third touchdown of the night, capping a long, 97-yard drive. A two-point conversion would have tied the game, but

Homecoming thrills at Prospect; closing Knight surge tops Conant

by PAUL LOGAN

The large Prospect Homecoming crowd must have been thinking one very dismal thought during those first three minutes of the fourth quarter Friday night.

Their Knight football team was trying to protect a six-point lead when the first play of the final period backfired. Prospect fumbled and Conant recovered just 41 yards from the go-ahead touchdown.

In the Cougars' drive for the tying score, twice they fumbled and both times they recovered. The first accounted for 14 yards; the second for 16 as the ballcarrier — Jim Stump — picked it up on the run and scored.

The Knights appeared to be snakebitten. This especially seemed the case when, with the score tied at 14-14, their defense appeared to have Conant quarterback Bob Borczak stopped in his try for the two-point running conversion. But Borczak broke through the tacklers and gave his team the lead.

Just when the homecoming festivities seemed to have gone for naught and as the rain began to fall a little harder to spoil things even more, lightning struck twice. Prospect burned the Conant defense for two lengthy touchdown gallops in less than five minutes for a sparkling come-from-behind 26-16 victory.

Having a hand in both as well as the two earlier scores was Mike Quade, the Knights' quarterback. Running the option in picture book fashion, he helped set up the go-ahead score and ran for the other himself.

Prospect took the lead in just four plays. After Dave Thoma's kickoff return of 25 yards set his team up on the 30, a couple of running plays by Keith Mason and Don Meyer got them as far as their own 42.

It was here that the first deadly run was initiated. Quade ran left on the option and — just at the right moment — pitched to trailing halfback Jack Devero. The 5-foot-10, 180-pound senior broke a tackle, raced down the sidelines, broke away from a Cougar trap with a fine cutback move and finished his 58-yard run untouched.

Quade missed his receiver in the end zone for the two-point conversion, leaving the senior signalcaller pretty angry with himself. Since extra points had meant a lot earlier in the game, this blown chance left Prospect with only a 20-16 lead with over eight minutes remaining.

Jack Devero

The Knight quarterback didn't have to be frustrated or worried for long. Prospect's defense stopped Conant to force a punt. Quade was inserted to field it because he's used to handling the ball, but he hadn't returned a punt so far this season.

A return was set up with a wall of blockers forming in front of the Knight bench. Quade made the catch, broke away from a tackler and received some good blocks, especially from Scott Hetherington, en route to a spectacular 75-yard touchdown. Another two-point pass failed, but Mike didn't care too much this time. The game was won.

Prospect's passing game was off somewhat on the evening as Quade only completed one of nine tries for two yards. But the running game was so outstanding that it easily made up for the lack of aerial accuracy. Devero dashed for 106 yards in nine carries and workhorse fullback Meyer carried 20 times for 103.

"We ran the option a little bit different because of the way they (Cougars) defensed it," said Knight head coach Dave Keefe. "We made an adjustment (in the second quarter) which opened things up for the fullback."

In the second and third quarters, Conant's defense was very fullback conscious. Running out of the wishbone, Prospect scored its first two touchdowns on identical plays. The hosts tied the game at 8-all when Quade faked to Meyer and pitched at the last moment to Devero, who raced around the left side for a 15-yard score. Quade's only two point conversion clicked with a pass to Meyer.

The same play netted Devero a 14-yard score in the third quarter, leaving the Knights with a 14-8 lead.

Conant had enjoyed an early lead with a first quarter scoring pass of 34 yards from Borczak to the Mid-Suburban League's leading pass catcher, Mark Losee. Borczak ran for the two-pointer. Also, Stump had rebounded from a rib injury to rush for 114 yards — tops for both teams.

Don Meyer

The Cougars appeared on their way to win No. 3 after the fumble recovery by Fred Schneider and the successive recoveries of their own bobbles en route to their second touchdown. Instead, they are now 2-4 overall and 1-4 in the MSL with two games remaining.

Prospect also has two regular season games left — both monumental ones that could lead the Knights to a possible playoff berth in the Super Bowl. They presently are tied with their upcoming opponents — Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove — as well as Forest View with 3-2 league marks. Schaumburg leads the South Division with a 4-1 record.

"We're improving," said Keefe, whose team now has a 4-2 overall record. "I really felt if these kids believed in themselves we'd have a chance."

The alumni and student body have to believe now, too.

Smashing St. Viator win; Carmel bows in 54-0 blitz

by MIKE KLEIN

Guys named Haldeman probably won't remember this as the greatest year in their lives. Well, at least that might ring true for a couple guys.

The most obvious choice is H. R. Haldeman, a former leader of men under the only United States President ever deposed by popular opinion and Congressional pressure.

Not so well known is Bill Haldeman, the 5-foot-7 sophomore quarterback for Carmel's winless Corsairs. Friday evening, young Haldeman met St. Viator's Lions, an experience he won't cherish.

Scoring on eight-of-nine possessions, the Lions swamped Carmel, 54-0, throwing more fuel on their argument for a No. 1 state ranking.

The winning points scored on Pat Bucaro's 26-yard catch from Bob Walsh as 6:57 remained in the first period. Ironically, an identical TD play, Walsh to Bucaro, was nullified four downs earlier by holding against Steve Leahy.

From that point, the game detoured downhill and it seemed fitting the entire episode should end in a driving rain. Viator held a 21-0 halftime lead. Substitute quarterback Jim Thompson directed the Lions to four touchdowns during the last period.

No one expected less than an overwhelming victory for St. Viator. The Lions took the East Suburban Catholic's top offense and stingiest defense to Carmel. The Corsairs rank last in both categories among eight ESCC teams.

Thompson and halfback John Breen scored two touchdowns apiece. Bucaro, Joe Littwin, Mark Bonucchi and Mark Selvig crossed the goal line once.

Jim Lyne's club left Mundelein with a 4-0 record in ESCC games and 6-0 overall. They host St. Patrick on Friday evening at Prospect. Viator could clinch at least a tie for conference honors by winning in two weeks at St. Francis deSales.

Carmel never had a chance against the Lions. Littwin ran 11 yards on the first play from scrimmage, gearing an offense that outdid the Corsairs, 425-96 in total yardage. Viator picked up 284 yards on the ground. Littwin led with 93, all but 10 coming in the first period.

He contributed 40 yards in five carries on the 73-yard drive that set up Walsh's TD pass to Bucaro and a 6-0 lead. Mark Campana missed the kick.

Carmel retreated four yards in three downs, then punted. In two plays, Littwin ran 30 and 13 yards, then rushed for the two-point conversion. Viator led, 14-0, after one period.

Carmel picked up one of its seven first downs (Viator had 23) when Haldeman found Jon Martin on a 27-yard pass pattern. The Corsairs reached Viator's 30 on Haldeman and Fred Allen runs totalling five yards. But Haldeman passed incomplete twice to end the series.

Nine plays later, Walsh hit Breen with a 16-yard TD pass and Campana kicked the point, giving Viator its 21-0 lead. That pair had clicked on a third and six, 24-yard pass that brought Viator to Carmel's 10.

Young Haldeman, barely tall enough to see over his linemen, had his best success on the Corsairs' ensuing drive, collecting three first downs and moving to Viator's 20. However, they got no closer. Haldeman lost two yards, then six on a linebacker blitz by Selvig before passing incomplete twice.

Helped by 30 penalty yards against Viator, Carmel drove to the Lions' 20 after taking the second half kickoff. But Haldeman couldn't connect with Dave Zeffery on a fourth and one pass.

Carmel ran no more plays during the third quarter, Viator marching 80 yards to score when Breen plunged over from one yard. Campana kicked the point for a 28-0 lead.

Holding plus a Walsh-to-Littwin pass that lost four yards nearly killed the drive. Viator faced second and 29 at its 45. But Walsh, who was 10-of-16 for 131 yards, passed 24 yards to Jack Gracheck, then rushed for a new set of downs.

Never stymied, Walsh hit Breen with a 20-yard completion to Carmel's one-yard line on a fourth and seven situation. Then Walsh left for the night and Thompson took over.

Carmel had just three downs before Bucaro intercepted Haldeman and ran 12 yards to the Corsair 25. Thompson ran two yards for a 35-0 lead five plays later.

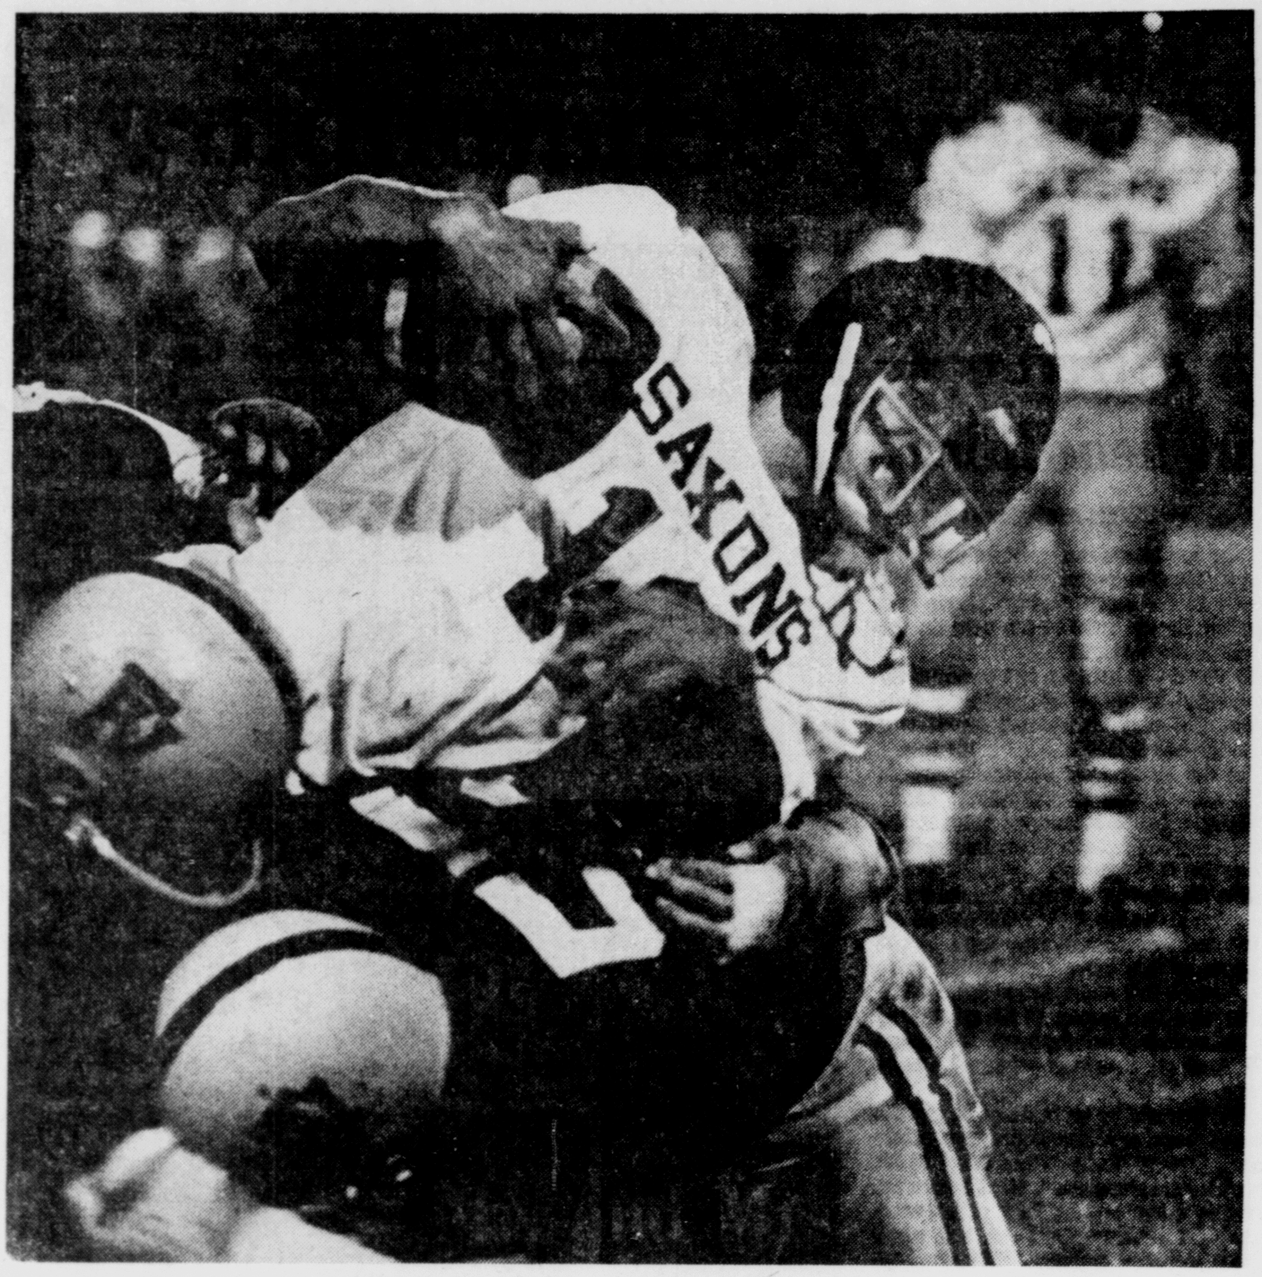

Haldeman ran for no yardage, then was intercepted by Pat Rooney, Bill Deal recovering Rooney's fumble at Viator's 44. Selvig rushed 26 yards in three carries, Thompson finally scoring on a five-yard sweep. That made it 42-0.

Carmel helped out by fumbling Selvig's kickoff, Tom McHale recovering for Viator. After Thompson passed incomplete, Bonucchi ran 19 yards to score and the Lions led, 48-0.

Haldeman got Carmel one first down before a Corsair punt. Selvig added the final bruising touches on a two-yard run, ending a four play, 53-yard drive. Thompson ran 32 yards before handing off to Selvig.

Nine possessions, eight Viator touchdowns. The one failure ended in Greg Kay's only punt, a 51-yarder.

Still, you couldn't help but respect little Haldeman, a kid who never quit trying despite an offense that gained just 27 second half yards against Viator's mighty defenders.

Cards spoil a homecoming with three TDs

by BOB GALLAS

The Arlington Cardinals reached a "milestone" en route to a 21-0 shutout over the winless Fremd Vikings.

"That's the first time all year we've scored three touchdowns in a game," beamed a happy coach Chuck Haines, whose Cardinals, along with a light rain, dampened the spirits of a large Fremd homecoming crowd.

For the Vikings, the loss was the sixth in a row and came hard for coach Joe Samojedny.

"We knew exactly what we wanted to do, but our passing wasn't sharp. Our defense did well, but they were in there so much . . ." said Samojedny, not finishing the sentence.

Fremd signal caller David Wickum, indeed, had a rough night against an Arlington defense that just kept coming and held Wickum to only four completions in 11 tries for nine yards in the air.

About the only offensive weapon the Vikings had came in the form of halfback Rich Sharpe, who carried the offensive load, going 102 yards in 20 carries, and catching a four-yard pass.

As a team, the Vikes only mustered 116 yards on the ground and nine yards passing.

"He (Sharpe) carried the load for us and wasn't getting the good blocking all the time either," said Samojedny.

The Cardinals took a 14-0 lead to the dressing room at halftime, scoring at the beginning and end of the second period.

Mike Schell got the Cards on the board with 10:48 left in the half, going in from the one yard line. Steve Leonard's kick made it 7-0.

Arlington scored again with only :21 showing on the clock as the Cards took advantage of good field position, following a Fremd punt.

Getting the ball on the Viking 41, the Cards followed two incomplete passes with a 12 yard run by quarterback Matt Shaughnessy who was trapped behind the line, but got free for the gain.

A 29 yard screen pass from Shaughnessy to Tom North was good for Arlington's second touchdown, followed by Leonhard's kick to make it 14-0.

Neither team could move the ball in the second half, but the Cards took advantage of an interception by Steve Hadley with :59 seconds left for their final score.

Hadley picked off an errant Wickum pass at the Viking 45, returning it to the 34. A quick 19 yard run by Schell followed by a 14-yard pass to John Yeazel gave the Cards their final TD with only :29 left in the game.

Leonhard's third kick of the day made the final score Arlington 21, Fremd 0.

Haines had words of praise for his own quarterback, Shaughnessy who was five for 13 for 84 yards and was right on target for most of his passes.

"He gives us a new dimension at quarterback, something we never had," said Haines. "Now we have a kid out there who's dangerous and can throw anytime," he added.

Haines also used four running backs during the game shuttling in juniors Schell and Phil Dinielli for seniors Craig Bernhardy and Bill Jankiewicz.

"I think our seniors run harder with the juniors chasing behind them," said Haines.

In addition to the running of Sharpe, big defensive end Randy Vaughn was a bright spot for the Vikings. Vaughn sacked the Cardinal quarterback twice, both times for eight yard losses.

The Vikings have the tough Buffalo Grove squad to look forward to this week, and Samojedny said he'll be working hard to keep his squad from getting down.

"One win under our belt would have really helped," said Samojedny. "We lost some tough games at the beginning of the season and now I think the boys are a little hesitant, hoping things will happen instead of making them happen," Samojedny said.

The fortunes of the Cardinals have apparently turned upward. Their win gives them a conference record of 2-3 and a win this week over a winless Wheeling, would give the Cards an overall season record of 4-3.

Saxons win in overtime, 43-37

Petran was dragged down trying the right side.

"I am extremely proud of the kids," said Lussow after the game. "I've seen teams down at halftime who get completely blown off in the second half. But our kids came back, they didn't quit, they stayed and fought."

The game appeared to be all but over at 4:34 of the fourth period when Zonca tallied his third TD on a fourth-down option keeper from the Falcon 22. But Biver missed his first extra-point kick of the evening, and with the score 37-29, Forest View was still alive.

Petran failed to connect on third and fourth down passes on the next drive, which stalled at the Schaumburg 39, and the Saxons proceeded to run the clock down to 1:32 before Martino fumbled the ball at the Falcon 31 following an eight-yard gain.

"I thought we had it wrapped up," said Ferguson. "We had ball control, we were moving, and we gave it to our best runner. Martino hasn't fumbled in three years."

Petran waited until third down to locate Ray Michaelson on a slant over the middle. The 6-foot-1, 175-pound junior nabbed the pass in stride and outraced three Saxon defenders for the TD that put Forest View within two.

Then Petran found Bob Strasser at the left flag for a rolling, two-point reception and the game was 37-37.

Schaumburg won the overtime coin flip and elected to take first crack at scoring from 10 yards out.

On third down, following a Saxon procedure penalty and a three-yard loss, Zonca rolled right, broke three tackles, and piled into the end zone with what proved to be the winning score. Biver missed his extra-point try again, and the Saxons had to play defense.

"We were looking for that play," said Lussow later. "But we just didn't make the tackles. Zonca jumped over a couple of kids. We should have had him, but he's a good runner."

The first play for Forest View was an incomplete pass in the left flat. Petran slipped on the wet turf on second down, losing five yards. Then the junior quarterback hit Schmidt in the right flat, and Schmidt made it all the way down to the one, forced out of bounds very near the corner stake.

"We decided that if they scored we'd throw four times, but with fourth and one we had to run," said the Falcon coach.

Petran handed to Matzl, who tried the right side of the line. The 6-2, 195-pounder met a gang of Saxons, including linebacker Martino, who held him six inches from the goal line and the game was over.

Stubborn Wheeling gives Palatine fits but falls

by JIM COOK

"I warned my kids that Wheeling was capable of putting points on the board," Palatine head coach Arv Herstedt cautioned prior to a big sigh of relief.

His opportunistic Pirates had just registered a 30-19 triumph to help dampen Wheeling's homecoming activities, but they were forced to rally twice against the stubborn Wildcats.

"I was very pleased with the way we moved the ball," Jack Liljeberg agreed when informed that his winless outfit had raked the field for 338 total yards.

"But we just can't shake those backbreaking mistakes," he added. There's always something, either a mental or physical error, that really hurts."

The turning point in the see-saw battle came midway through the third period while Wheeling was protecting a 19-15 lead it had achieved in the first series of the second half.

Palatine gained possession of the ensuing squib kick at the Wildcat 46 yard line, but quickly faced a fourth down, 11 yards-to-go situation against the unyielding Wheeling defense.

Palatine punter Rob Hughes skyrocketed an end-over-end boot that accumulated more height than distance. In Wheeling's haste to set up a blocking pattern for the return, the ball skidded to the ground and nicked an unkowing Wildcat blocker.

Pirate Jim Smearman recovered the deflected fumble and Palatine was back in business with a fresh set of downs at the Wheeling 27.

Quarterback Mark McCostlin, engineering the triple option very effectively throughout the contest, bootlegged the ball after a fake into the line and scampered 20 yards down to the seven.

Fullback Jim Maycan, rarely brought to the turf without two or three Wheeling defenders strapped to his back, bucked for four yards and then two before Jim Popp pushed over from six feet away.

Glenn Barry

A two-point conversion put Palatine back into a 23-19 lead which they later padded to 30-19 on a two-yard plunge by Maycan late in the fourth quarter.

"Yea, Maycan ran the way we expect him to tonight," Herstedt said of his brusing 6-foot-3, 200-pound fullback. "He showed some balance tonight and he had a couple good second efforts."

Maycan carried 22 times for 106 yards and tallied twice from two yards out to provide Palatine with a consistent, punishing ground game.

It appeared as though Wheeling was in for a long evening when McCostlin broke the first play of the game for a 52-yard score after calling his own number on the option.

But Wheeling immediately answered the challenge after the shocking score should have deflated its morale.

The 'Cats drove 60 yards in nine plays, relying strictly on a quick-opening infantry featuring Oscar Quesada and Curt Rathje who rushed for 67 and 64 yards, respectively.

The big play in the series was Quesada's 28-yard scamper that forced McCostlin to make a touchdown-saving tackle at the Pirate 27. Rathje bulled over from the three and it was a new ball game at seven apiece.

Following an eschange of punts, Wheeling captured its first lead when quarterback Glenn Barry found elusive Quesada in the flat for a 52-yard burst early in the second quarter.

The tennis match continued to sway back and forth with Palatine assuming a 15-13 halftime edge on Maycan's first six-pointer, but the Wildcats responded with a six-yard go-ahead dive by Rathje that provided a 19-15 margin.

But not even Barry's arm, which earned 173 passing yards on nine completions in 17 attempts, could save Wheeling from the costly turnover.

"We're happy to get out of here with a win," Herstedt reinforced of Wheeling's capable offense. "Someone else may not be as fortunate."

Hersey wins with extra point

thern to Rick Brinsmade, they marched to the Huskie nine-yard stripe. A fake field goal try developed into a stymied pass attempt and the 7-all tie held up.

The third quarter was mostly consumed by one long Grove march, originating at their own 30 and culminating 20 plays and two helpful penalties later with Barry Schuster driving up the middle from the two to score.

The snap on the extra point kick overshot its mark and Smithern was forced into a desperation pass situation. He found his mark — George Bastable — but the play came up five yards short of the goal.

The busted play proved to be strategic when the Huskies went on their own 68-yard march directly afterwards. Topczewski's fling to lonely Dave Carey ate away 33 and short flips to Chris Vivona and Forster on the screen were worth eight more apiece.

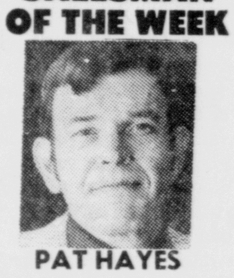

Finally it was Steve Block angling off left tackle unmolested from the four to bring about a 13-13 tie. Barnard cooly split the uprights again for the final margin of difference.

Later on, Hersey got out of a hole through Carey's stunning catch on the fly of a Topczewski sideline pass good for 22 yards. When the guests finally took over they were deep in their own territory, the clock was ticking down beyond the three minute mark and the rain was starting to fall.

Even so, the poised Smithern directed an assault that moved 54 yards in eight plays down to nearly field goal range. An illegal procedure took some wind out of the drive and Huskie Roger Urban completely punctured it on the next play, blitzing from left end to bring down Smithern for a loss on the other side of the backfield.

Two plays later Ed Novak intercepted a deflected Bison pass to finish smothering the threat.

Arlington captures two titles; archers sweep to top honors...

by PAUL LOGAN

Arlington's archers were right on target Saturday afternoon at Forest View's wind swept football field.

Coach Linda Swanson's archers overcame the turbulent conditions to capture 15 firsts, three seconds and a fourth en route to a lopsided Mid-Suburban Conference championship.

The defending champion Cardinals finished with 215 points, including 145 which they racked up during the dual meet portion of the schedule.

A distant second was Prospect with 142 points. Then came Conant (109), Hersey (98.5), Fremd (89), Forest View (76), Schaumburg (60.5), Elk Grove (55), and Palatine (23).

Arlington was led to victory by a trio of sharpshooters—Cathy Boyd, Kim Griffith and Mary Korn. Each won a medal for finishing among the top five high series performers.

Boyd, Arlington's No. 1 archer coming into the meet, placed third on the elite list with 568 points. Griffith, the Cards' No. 3 shooter, was fourth best in the meet with 564. Korn, who shot in seventh position, was the most pleasant surprise of all for her coach. She came through with a sparkling 557 series to take fifth.

Surprising quite a few people in this almost all-girl meet was one of the two boys who competed. Prospect's Gary Avischious, who came into the day's action as his team's No. 2 archer, enjoyed a superb afternoon. He fired a 570 series, edging out Forest View's Cathy Rodenback for top honors by just two points!

Rodenbeck finsihed with 568—the same score as Arlington's Boyd. However, Rodenback was awarded the higher finish because she had a better total from 30 yards (280 to 266).

After shooting from 30 yards, Rodenback was the leader with an outstanding 280 total. Avischious could only manage a 258 at that distance with Boyd coming in with a 266. But Avischious rallied with an outstanding 312 from 20 yards. Rodenback had 288 and Boyd a 302.

Rounding out the rest of Arlington's 10-person team after Boyd, Griffith and Korn were Dianne Swanson with 556, Linda Bahe with 542, Pam Brown with 528, Jennifer Hammerli with 516, Joyce Norman with 470, Diane Brouhard with 461 and Dick Braun with 293.

"Under the circumstances, they all did well," said Arlington's coach. "I'm very pleased."

Finishing in the top five for each team were these archers:

Prospect — Avischious (570), Dorothy Nee (544), Barb Krewer (492), Rene White (488) and Judy Kirchhoff (475).

Conant — Bonnie Reichelt (452), Brenda Novack (440), Diane Thompson (427), Virginia Spitzer (426), and Cindy Greiman (425).

Hersey — Rose Kruckmeyer (500), Linda Merle (489), Lin Hooson (475), Louise Warren (428), and Nancy Kreuser (426).

Fremd — Kathy Uhrich (469), Joyce Hansen (467), Betsy Hill (452), Vickie Swanson (448), and Cathy Rotello (422).

Forest View — Rodenback (568), Karen Diekhoff (472), Julie Schmidt (454), Cheryl Eldridge (442), and Lynn Jurgens (442).

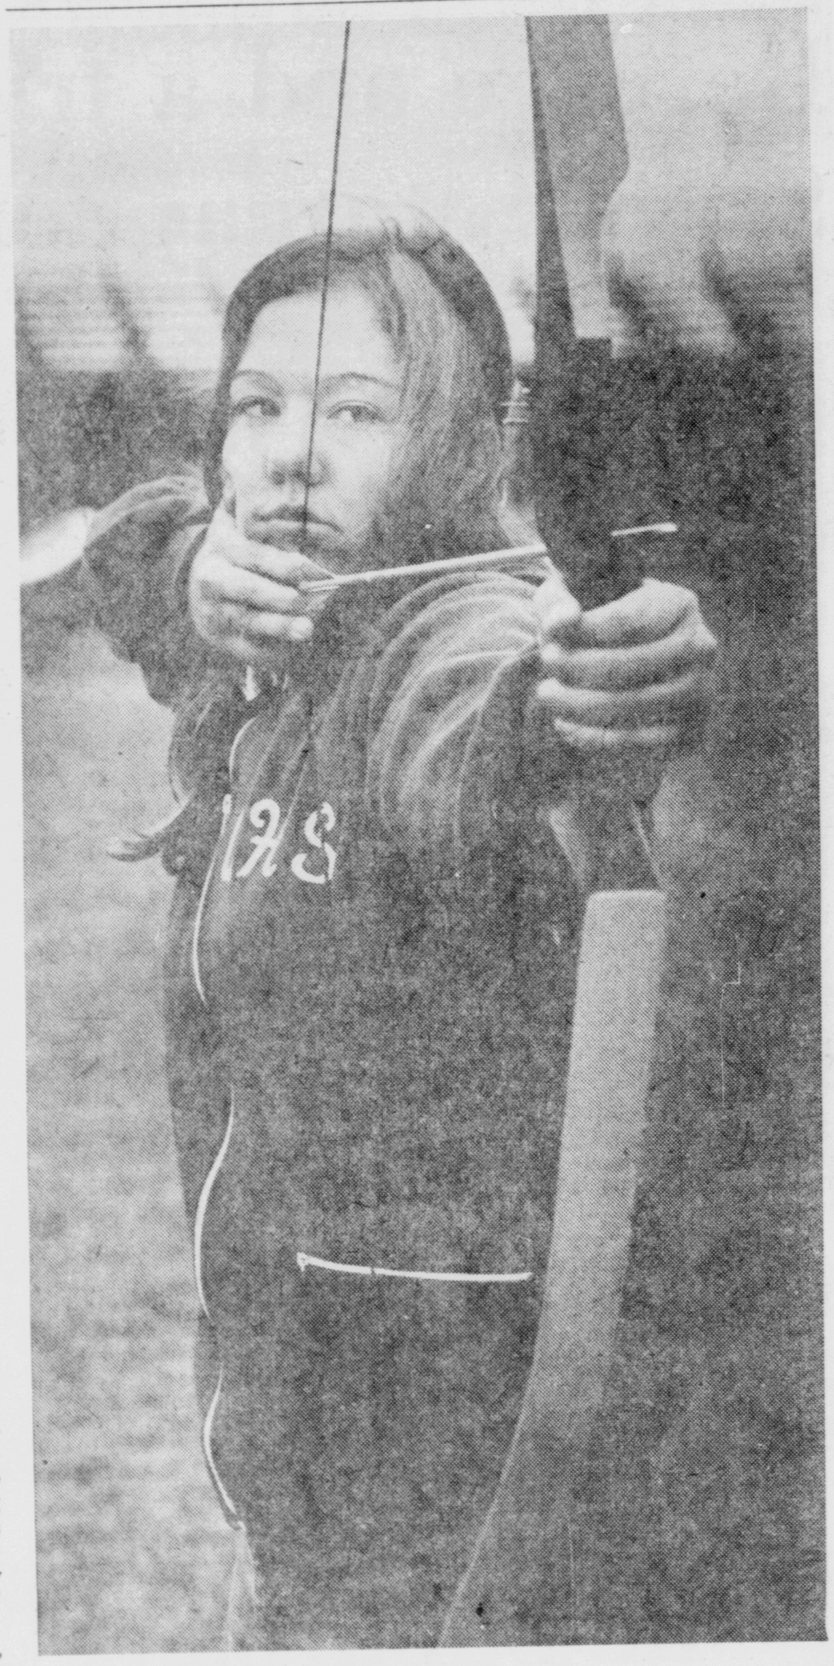

Schaumburg — Trudi Bayer (509), Cindy Carley (432), Erin Woolfitt (382), Kim McGraw (377) and Lisa Martello (375).

Elk Grove — Marcia Lecheler (496), Cheryl Rebman (443), Cheryl Moran (415), Karen Burchfield (361), and Glee Hansen (353).

Palatine — Kathy Soutar (468), Sue Denson (402), Joan Vesely (399), Chris Petko (382) and Pat Mitchell (362).

...And tennis team dominates conference test

by PAUL LOGAN

Championship teams have a way of overcoming adversity. Such was the case for Arlington's tennis team Saturday.

The girls of Coach Mary Lou Hundt seemed to ignore the plummeting temperature and the icy, gusty wind to win all seven individual titles along with the Mid-Suburban Conference championship at Buffalo Grove.

Although Buffalo Grove has a nice set of new courts, wind screens haven't been installed yet. This made for plenty of tough going in the second day of the meet.

Arlington defeated both the competition and the elements to capture its fourth straight MSC trophy in the four-year history of the event. Hundt's Cardinals finished with 82 points, including the markers they picked up in the dual meet portion of league.

Fremd and Prospect tied for second with 48 points each. The remaining 10 teams ended up like this:

Palatine in fourth (45), Hersey in fifth (40), Wheeling in sixth (34), Elk Grove in seventh (30), Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows tied for eighth (28), Schaumburg and Forest View tied for 10th (19), Conant in 12th (15) and Buffalo Grove in 3th (13).

Taking the three singles titles were Mary Baines, Jean Condon and Maureen Coleman.

Baines, a senior, met Palatine's Colleen Clery in the finals. Clery, also a senior, had handed Baines her only loss of the dual meet season, 3-6, 12-10, 6-1. This time Baines proved to be much stronger in her overall game with a speedy 6-0, 6-3 decision.

Arlington's top singles players had advanced to the finals with wins over Forest View's Kim Karaffa (6-0, 6-1) and Hersey's Barb Pancratz (6-1, 6-2).

Condon, playing second singles, defeated Prospect's Lorel Allseits in the finals 6-0, 6-2. The Cardinal senior made her way to the top in most convincing fashion, giving up just three games in as many matches. In the other two, Condon stopped Hoffman Estates' Sandy Norton (6-0, 6-0) and Rolling Meadows' Barb Gallo (6-0, 6-1).

"She probably has fought the hardest, probably played the best in the last two weeks and carried it right into the conference meet," said Hundt. Arlington's coach added that she didn't want to take anything away from Baines' victory because her top player is performing like a senior should.

Coleman, going at third singles, won her title by forfeit. Le Ann Paulsen of Wheeling had to leave before the finals because of a prior commitment. Coleman, who wasn't seeded, needed three wins to reach the finals. She stopped Hersey's Cathy De Waal (6-1, 6-1), Rolling Meadows' Karen O'Brien (6-1, 6-1) and Conant's Esther Kaplan (6-1, 6-0).

Paulsen, also unseeded, surprised some people with a pair of fine three-set victories before she had to withdraw.

In doubles action, Arlington's Leslie Grabitz and JoAnn Skovanik defeated the first doubles team from Prospect, Mara Rautenberg and Ann Wierec, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals.

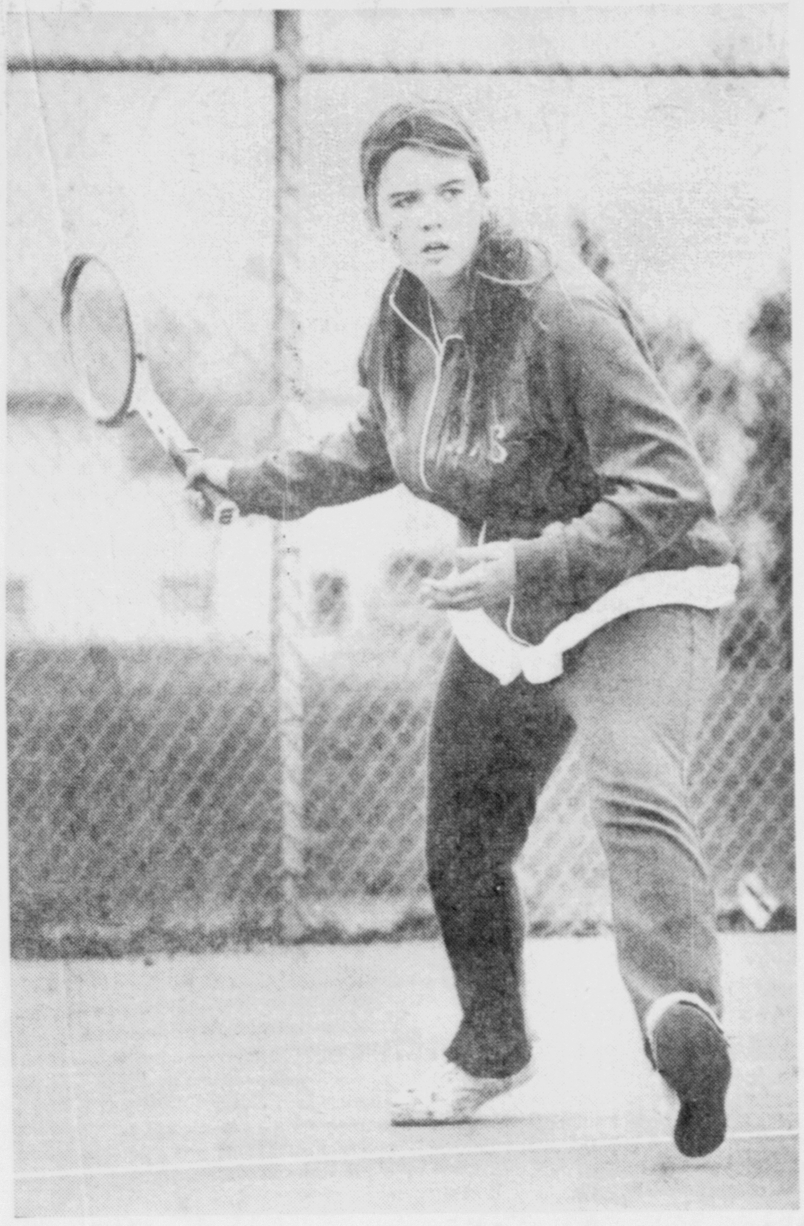

Grabitz and Skovanik advanced by beating Hersey's Pam Rodiek and Sue Vetta and Rolling Meadows' Cathy Glass and Rayanne Hitzemann.

Winning at second doubles was the team of Mary Flynn and Janet Haberkorn. They stopped Buffalo Grove's Wynn King and Cindy Moore and Prospect's Carol DiPrima and Cindy Lollar.

Arlington's third doubles team of Dotty Massey and Patty Pinski won medals with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Fremd's Colleen Cannon and Kim Whiting in the finals. En route to the championship, they beat Hersey's Kathy Tchon and Lynn Ray and Schaumburg's Roseann Simon and Pam Potter.

Hundt was especially pleased by her second doubles' showing. As for this year's MSC champions, she added this:

"I think this team as a whole is a much younger team than I've coached for a long time. Overall, they have more drive and determination. They're probably not as skilled as teams in the past, but they're more hardworking than any I've had."

Every first is all-time first for West swimmers

Maine West notched an all-time first in girls' swimming last week.

Competing against Niles East, the Warriors of Coach Terry Milam captured every first, a feat never accomplished in the three years the team has been competing interscholastically. The Warriors won in a romp, 116-47.

Karen Gafrick, Pat Sipple and Betty Lou Evans were the eam's double winnes. Gafrick took the 200-yard freestyle (2:22.1) and the 100 free (1:04.3); Sipple the 50 free (29.3) and the 500 free (6:24.1); and Evans the 200 individual medley (2:37.9) and the 100 butterfly (1:09.6).

Other individual champs were Nancy Parrotte in one meter diving (95.6), Donna Watson in the 100 backstroke (1:25.0) and Sue Bowersox in the 100 breaststroke (1:20.2).

The 200 medley relay team of Watson, Parrotte, Barb DePasquale and Bowersox in 2:21.2.

Capturing the 400 free relay was the foursome of Evans, Sipple, Sue Sullivan and Gafrick in 4:31.9.

Field goal gives Meadows South win over Elk Grove

by DON FRISKE

Fred Cox and John Ellis have one thing in common. They've both worked with Scott Green's toe.

Green, punter and placekicker for Rolling Meadows, used both of these kicking devices to aid the Mustangs in their 3-0 win over Elk Grove Friday night.

Cox, placekicker with the Minnesota Vikings, worked with Green during the past summer at a camp for kickers. Ellis is in charge of the Mustangs' kicking game.

"Green works all the time and he's progressed very much," said Angelo Barro, Mustang coach.

With 1:01 to go in the opening quarter, the Mustangs had a fourth down on the Grenadiers 19 yard line. Green was called in for the field goal, which he accomplished successfully from 36 yards out.

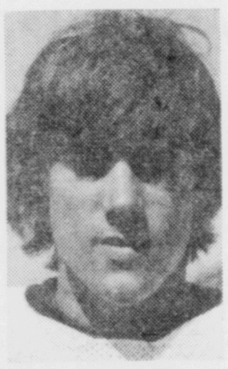

These three points, which seemed somewhat secondary at the time they were scored, held up for the Mustangs.

Early in the final quarter, the Grens pushed the Mustangs all the way back to the Mustangs' two yard line.

It appeared as though the Mustangs were in trouble when they sent Green deep in the end zone for a punt. Green, though, got off a unique kick that travelled close to 50 yards in the air and about 20 more on the bounce.

The kick was good for 71 yards, pushing the Grens back to their own 26. The 34 was as close to the Mustangs goal line that they got the rest of the game.

"There were a few times that we got within a step of breaking open a big play," said Don Schnake, Gren coach, after the game.

Scott Green

This says something for the Mustang defense, that did much open-field tackling, holding the Grens to only 115 yards, all of these coming on the ground.

"We did a tremendous job defensively," said Barro. "They were the quickest ball club we've faced so far this year."

The win put new life in the Mustangs' chances for this year, but at the same time it did not kill the Grens chances. Both teams are in a four-way tie with Forest View and Prospect for second place in the South division, with Schaumburg leading the way.

The Mustangs, who were mistake-prone throughout the game, play their last two outings at home, while the Grens play one of each.

Three big mistakes almost came back to hurt the Mustangs late in the game.

In the second quarter, the Mustangs had the ball on their own 24 yard line. Six plays later, they were on the Grens' 23.

Two Steve Breitbeil passes, a 16-yarder to Ken Barro and a 10-yarder to Dick Blocki, plus a 15-yard run by Barro, got the Mustangs deep into Gren territory.

But then Breitbeil got hit just as he was pitching the ball to one of his backs. The ball never got to the back as Gren Tim McGuire picked up the loose ball on the 26 yard line, stopping the Mustangs' drive.

Later in the second quarter, it appeared that the Mustangs scored on a 40-yard pass from Breitbeil to Dan Helmboldt. The play was called back, however, due to an illegal receiver downfield.

In the third quarter, a Gren punt was touched by a Mustang and dropped. It was picked up by Gren James Maier on the Mustang 42, but again the Grens failed to take advantage of their opponent's mistakes.

John Willard, who gained 103 of the Grens' 115 total yards, was the game's leading rusher.

Penalties were scarce, the Grens not being penalized at all. The Mustangs were hit with four penalties for 30 yards, two of these leading to the touchdown losses.

Barro scored with about a minute left in the game from three yards out, but the touchdown was nullified because of an illegal procedure penalty.

Elk Grove had one last chance to win the game, but on first down from their own 34, Breitbeil intercepted the Grens' ninth straight non-successful pass to wrap up the game.

Revenge and a triumph! Sweet Saturday for West

by MIKE KLEIN

The head coach leaned against a training room wall adorned in brutal commentary from Gen. George Patton who insisted you must kill the opponent, thus ensuring he would never retaliate.

"I told the kids at halftime that we needed some kind of break during the third quarter," said Maine West's Jim Morel whose Warriors earned their first win, 7-6, Saturday at Niles North.

"That super tackle by (Norb) Ploszaj just lit us up. I knew we could go get it then."

Injuries to Scott Unger and Sean Dowd left Ploszaj as the only regular in West's defensive secondary Saturday. He listened well at halftime.

Niles North had led 6-0 from the outset, scoring on the game's first possession to end a 78-yard march. Now, the third period was more than half gone. The Vikings faced second and eight at midfield.

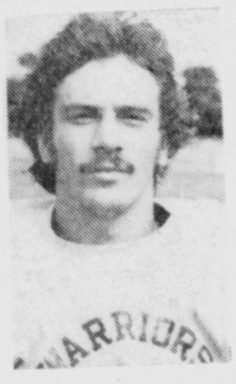

Ploszaj made his inspiring move when Tom Nevins pumped a right flat pass to halfback Steve Friedrichs. Charging from about five yards deep, Ploszaj addressed Friedrichs with disrespect.

"That halfback had been running off at the mouth so we were kind of glad it was him," Morel said. "The kids said he didn't talk a whole lot afterwards."

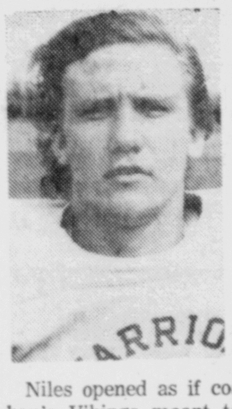

Ploszaj separated the ball from Friedrichs and provided impetus that spurred the Warriors into control. Amazingly, West drove 81 yards in 17 plays on its next possession without scoring.

Niles' Bill Hamilton made an apparent game saving tackle by hauling down Mike Janonis at the one. It was fourth and eight when senior quarterback Terry Quinn passed to Janonis for seven yards. Although stopped, the Warriors had moved and knew they could do it again.

The Vikings picked up a single first down, Nevins sweeping left for 11 yards before Bill Makuch and Brad Bonnivier forced him out-of-bounds. Scott Morrison's 31-yard punt, a low liner into powerful northern winds, put West on Niles' 44.

Norb Ploszaj

Mike Janonis

The Warriors didn't fool around. Makuch caught a short pass from Quinn, squeezed past three defenders and ran to Niles' seven where he was caught by Lloyd Levitt.

Janonis, 30 carries for 118 yards, made up the difference in four and three-yard bursts. Soccer style kicker Mike Pancich kicked the winning point.

Niles got two more shots. Nevins passed incomplete on fourth and five at his 43. The game ended with Bill Parry and Todd Salerno sacking Nevins for a 17-yard loss to his three.

It was a victory Morel dearly wanted because Niles ruined West's Homecoming last year with a 20-14 overtime victory that ensured a losing season for Maine.

An apparent Warrior touchdown pass, Dan Myszka to Ed Dolan for 11 yards, was nullified in that game. "I can show you on films where Dolan was in bounds but the official was too lazy to get downfield," a still angry Morel said.

"I went home so upset that night that I ran four miles at one-thirty with dogs barking everywhere. So we were looking forward to this game. I'm pleased."

Niles opened as if coach Frank Houlihan's Vikings meant to win in a rout. Brad Dubow ran 19 yards on third and 17, reaching his 48. Then Scott Morrison carried for six through a big hole.

On second and four, Nevins lofted a 46-yard scoring pass to junior end Neil Sachs. Trying for two, Dubow was met by West's Bonnivier, John Paloian and Makuch.

It seemed an unimportant play because after Maine's Steve Semler fumbled, the Vikings started marching from West's 41. Dubow ran twice for 12 yeards and Nevins hit Friedrichs with an 18-yard completion to West's 11.

Illegal procedure pushed the Vikings back five yards, then Bonnivier contributed his second big effort, intercepting Nevins at the goal line.

With Quinn playing his first game after recuperation from hernia surgery, the Warriors were slow in building their offense. Then Niles threatened again during the second period when Ploszaj punted just 12 yards into the strong northern wind.

Nevins completed a 19-yard pass to Morrison that put Niles on Maine's 25. But two rushes apiece by Dubow and Morrison got just nine yards. The Warriors moved 55 yards before Quinn fumbled. They had a good shot at scoring one play earlier when Quinn hit Makuch in the numbers but he dropped an apparent 29-yard scoring pattern.

But it had become clear that Quinn could move against Niles. And also that West's defenders were closing down holes that Dubow and Morrison ran through on Niles' scoring drive.

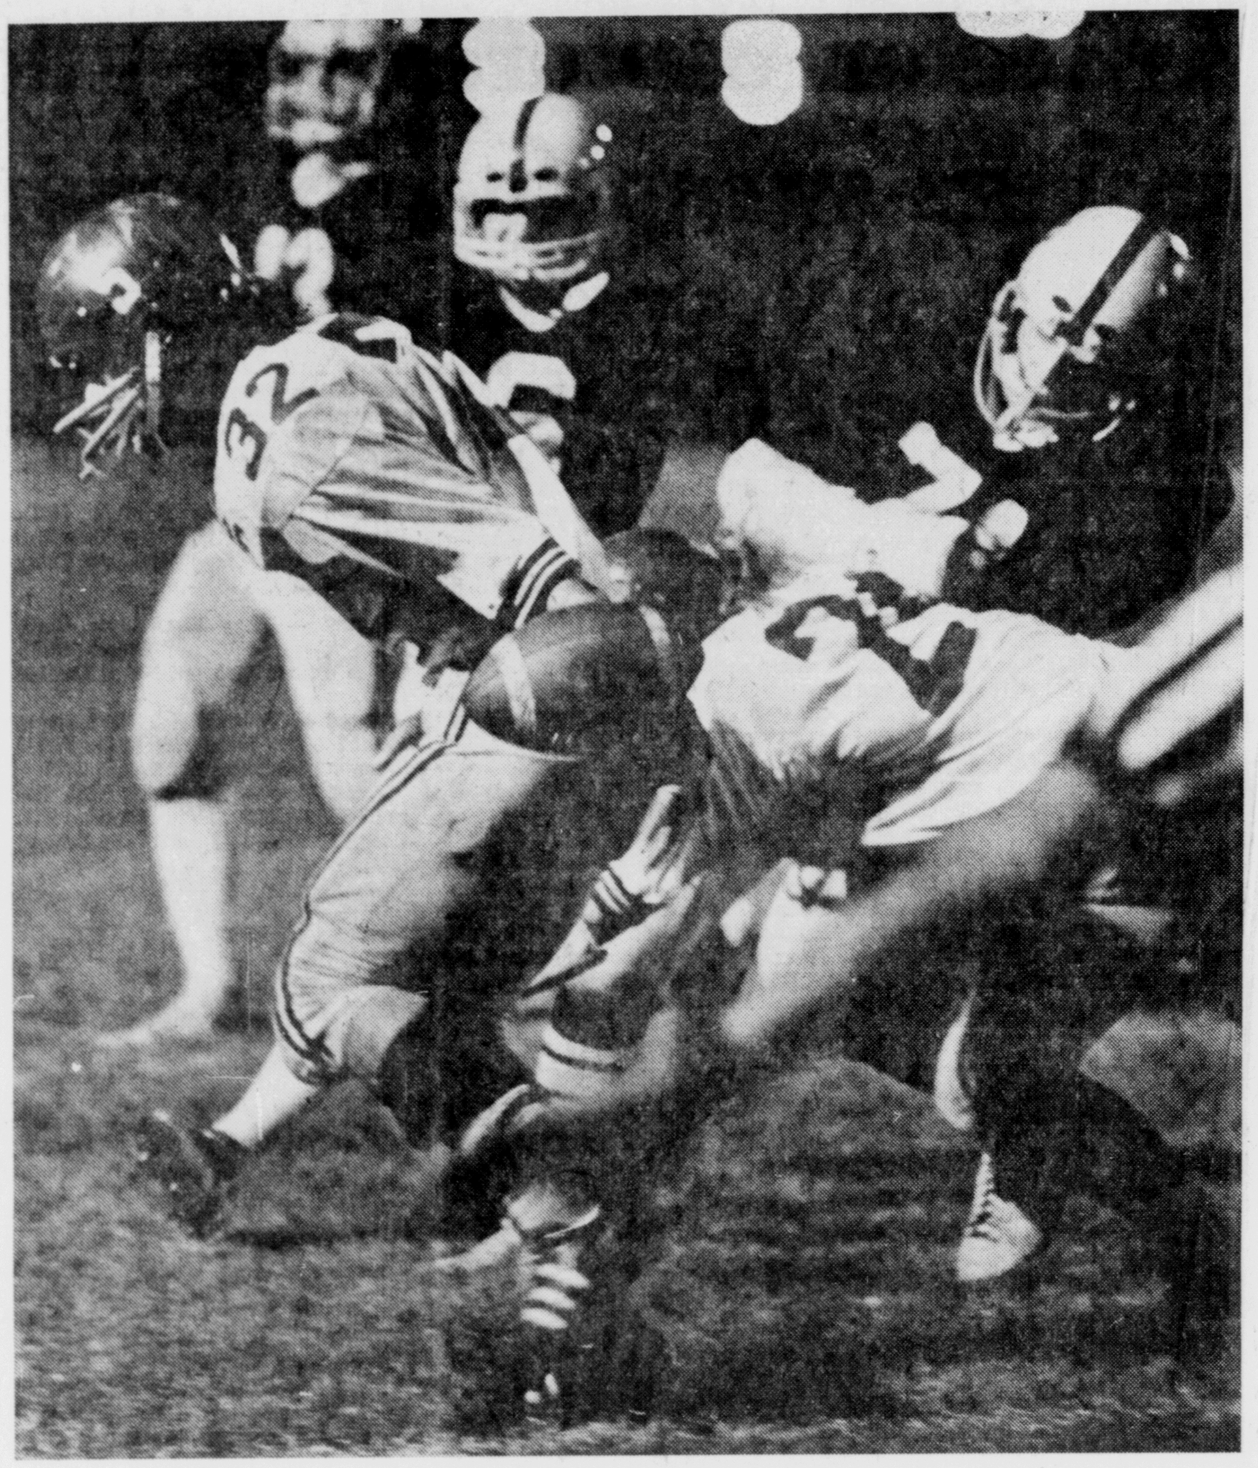

West dominated all aspects during the last two quarters. They ran more plays, 37-21, for greater yardage, 187-24, while the reworked secondary of Bonnivier, Ploszaj and Bob Zuccarini held the Vikings to no completions in five pass attempts.

Still, Niles remained ahead and Levitt, who later tackled Janonis at the one, stopped an earlier threat. West had third and five on Niles' 28. Janonis rushed one yard, meeting Levitt. When Quinn looked for Salerno on fourth down, Levitt broke up the pass.

The Vikings took over and five plays later Ploszaj made his tremendous hit on Friedrichs. That turned it around. After wasting an 81-yard drive, West forced a punt, then moved for the game winning score.

Morel said the offensive difference was Quinn who's "got confidence, knows what's going on out there and doesn't panic."

But you can't overlook Ployzaj's tackle, Bonnivier's first quarter interception or Dubow's failure to score on Niles' conversion run. They were big defensive efforts.

NO CONNECTION. Schaumburg linebacker Tom Martino (32) came within inches of intercepting this screen pass from Forest View quarterback Jim Petran in the third period of the Saxons' 43-37 overtime victory Friday. Petran (6), in the background, watched as Saxon Mike Marx (also in the picture) and then Martino got hands on the ball before it fell incomplete. The game was decided in overtime, for only the second time in MSL history.

Fremd harriers in convincing victory

The Fremd cross country team tuned up for its Mid-Suburban League title defense next Thursday with a convincing victory at the Libertyville Invitational Saturday.

The Vikings of coach Ron Menely fought off a challenge from a tough Maine West squad by placing three runners in the top five and four in the top nine.

Fremd's 38 points were racked up as Wil Fieldhouse took a third (13:58), Paul Kinyon a fourth (14:04), John Filosa a fifth (14:12), Dan Tischler ninth and Jim Galis 17th. The Vikes' next harriers were Dave Scott (18th) and Kevin Richardson (20th).

Maine West's second-place performance (73 points) was paced by senior standout Joe Paul, who took an individual runner-up spot on the 2.8-mile course behind winner Steve Chaplan of Glenbrook South, whose time was 13:47.

In third place was Deerfield (95), followed by a strong Waukegan team (109), Barrington (110), Hoffman Estates (168), Prospect (176), Glenbrook South (201), Glenbard East (231), Libertyville (256), and Zion-Benton (266).

Fremd coach Ron Menely, whose squad recently completed another MSL dual meet schedule without a loss, was both optimistic and cautious after the win.

"All our times were excellent," he said. "I'm pleased with everybody's performance, especially our sophomores."

The two sophs, Filosa and Tischler, gave sterling efforts, particularly Tischler, who has spent much of his time this season on the sophomore squad. His time of 14:22 was just 35 seconds off the winning time.

Fremd also got nifty showings from Scott and Richardson.

"Scott got spiked last week at Peoria," Menely said, "and it was good to see him come back like he did. And Kevin (Richardson) ran a really good race."

Richardson (14:37) was just three seconds behind Scott, giving the Vikings seven runners within 39 seconds.

"We're just going to go one meet at a time," the Fremd coach cautioned. "We've got the conference meet on Thursday and we hope to do pretty well there. Then there's the districts."

The Libertyville meet was run on a wet course that made it difficult to negotiate hills and turns.

"It was just like ice out there," said Menely. "And the hills were unreal. Still, our times were excellent."

In other weekend meets, Forest View took a fourth overall at the Addison Trail Invite, won by Willowbrook, as Darryl Robinson took fourth individually for the Falcons. The Forest View sophomore ran the three-mile course in 15:56. Wheeling was fifth and Elk Grove seventh.

In the big Mattoon Invitational Saturday, Palatine grabbed a fifth spot and Hersey captured eighth, as suburban Oak Park won the team title.

Rolling Meadows finished fourth behind the winning Antioch squad at the Mundelein Invite.

Conant took a fifth spot in the 23-team field at the Sterling Invitational as Cougar Dave Elderkin placed eighth. Mark Kaufman and Mike Moran were also in the top 20. Rockford Guilford was the team winner.

Surprising Thornton hands Harper 2nd setback, 16-14

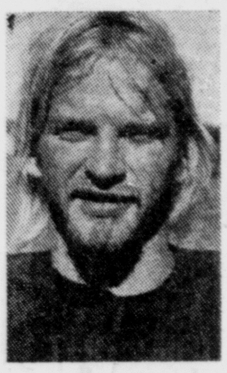

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The Harper Hawks took a painful step backwards towards extinction in the state championship running Friday afternoon when they dropped their second straight ballgame, 16-14, to the Thornton Bulldogs.

Capitalizing on some costly Hawk bumbles in the first quarter and some questionable official's calls in the third, the Bulldogs managed to edge the Hawks on the scoreboard while being soundly beaten everywhere else.

Playing with a decimated squad that was missing four top players, inciuding two defensive backs and Ervin Kimbrough, the team's leading receiver, the Hawks still took the Bulldogs down to the last gasping seconds before a final run for the end zone was cut short.

The Bulldogs received a solid shot in the arm right after the Thornton defense held Harper on their first offensive series and forced the Hawks to punt.

Gary Mueller, the injured first string quarterback who only snapped for punts Friday, put one over kicker Dave Patterson's head which he downed on Harper's one yard line.

The Hawk defense, which kept Harper in the game all afternoon, stacked up three straight Thornton dives into the line before Bill Browning finally managed to squeeze in for the touchdown.

The extra point attempt failed when the Hawks got on each other's shoulders and batted down the kick.

Harper's hijinks in the first quarter had just begun, though.

On the next offensive series, on the very first play in fact, the Hawks fumbled the ball right back to the Bulldogs.

Bulldog quarterback Brian Pearson, who was bewildered by the Harper pass defense all afternoon even without the presence of the suspended players beat it just once when he found Lloyd Burchett wide open. Burchett dropped the pass though.

He came back to Bruce Rambo for a 26 yard gain, then had the threat snuffed by Frank Bavaro's interception.

The next offensive series for Harper ended with a punt. Andreas threw an interception to end the next and Rich Hoevel fumbled on the first play of the one after that with the ball on Thornton's one yard line.

Keying the defense that kept getting the ball back for the offense all through the first quarter was Rich Lehnert. A freshman from Palatine, Lehnert spent most of the first quarter in the Thornton backfield dragging down runners for large negative yardage. On four consecutive plays he made tackles totaling a loss of 14 yards.

Two more fumbles in the second quarter ended Harper offensive series, the second by Andreas wiped out his spinning 28 yard run on the previous play.

But with the first half winding down and the Hawks starting to realize they were in a football game, Harper finally put some points up when Andreas threw to Geoff Bacon for a seven yard touchdown.

"People come down here to play us," said Thornton head coach Mike Zikas, who played for Notre Dame the year they lost to Texas in the Cotton Bowl "and they think they're in for an easy time of it. Sure we've lost two games but the teams that beat us are ranked seventh (Wright) and twelfth (Joliet) in the country.

"Harper came in here and they looked a little flat," Zikas continued. "I think they were taking us a little too lightly."

Andreas threw his second interception to start the third quarter and set up Thornton's second touchdown. Starting at Harper's 26 Browning carried three times down to the 14 where Paul Miles ran through a cloud of missed tackles for the touchdown.

Thornton got the ball back on a punt and began their longest sustained drive of the game, a drive abetted by several controversial officials' calls.

Keeping the ball on the ground for 15 consecutive plays, Thornton was aided by three face mask penalties, each on plays where the Hawks buried the Bulldogs for big losses. The resultant first downs kept Thornton going long enough for Paul Adamski to kick a 23-yard field goal.

"The officiating may not have seemed real strong today," Zikas admitted. "But I'll tell you it's the best we've had this year. We've played with guys where we had to get out the rule book and explain something to them and they'd say, 'Sorry, my mistake.' "

"I'm not going to blame the officials for this one," Harper head coach John Eliasik said. "But if this is the best officiating they've had here then I feel sorry for their program and for their players.

"I don't think we took them too lightly," Eliasik continued. "It was just a case of not executing properly. Nobody played well on offense and the handoffs and timing didn't click. When an offense only gets 14 points and they've been averaging over 20 (24.9) then something has gone wrong."

With Thornton hogging the ball all through the third quarter and denying Harper the chance to take advantage of the wind, the Hawks were forced to play their best football in the final period in a stiff breeze. They responded with a strong drive using Hoevel and Mike Dean for five and six yards at at a time. Hoevel finally pushed over from the one for the final touchdown.

With time running out, the final Harper offensive series began with slightly more than two minutes left. Andreas threw strongly to Bavaro who made a spectacular catch in a crowd of people for a 13 yard gain. Andreas then went to Jeff Seidman, an unheralded receiver who had popped some eyes with catches this year and responded to the Kimbrough vacancy with three catches for 30 yards, for 14 more yards. But from there Harper was wasted.

"I don't know about our chances for the state championship anymore," Eliasik said. "Right now I'm just worried about DuPage (Harper's homecoming opponent Saturday). Right now we're fair game for anybody."

NSSCC holds Enduro

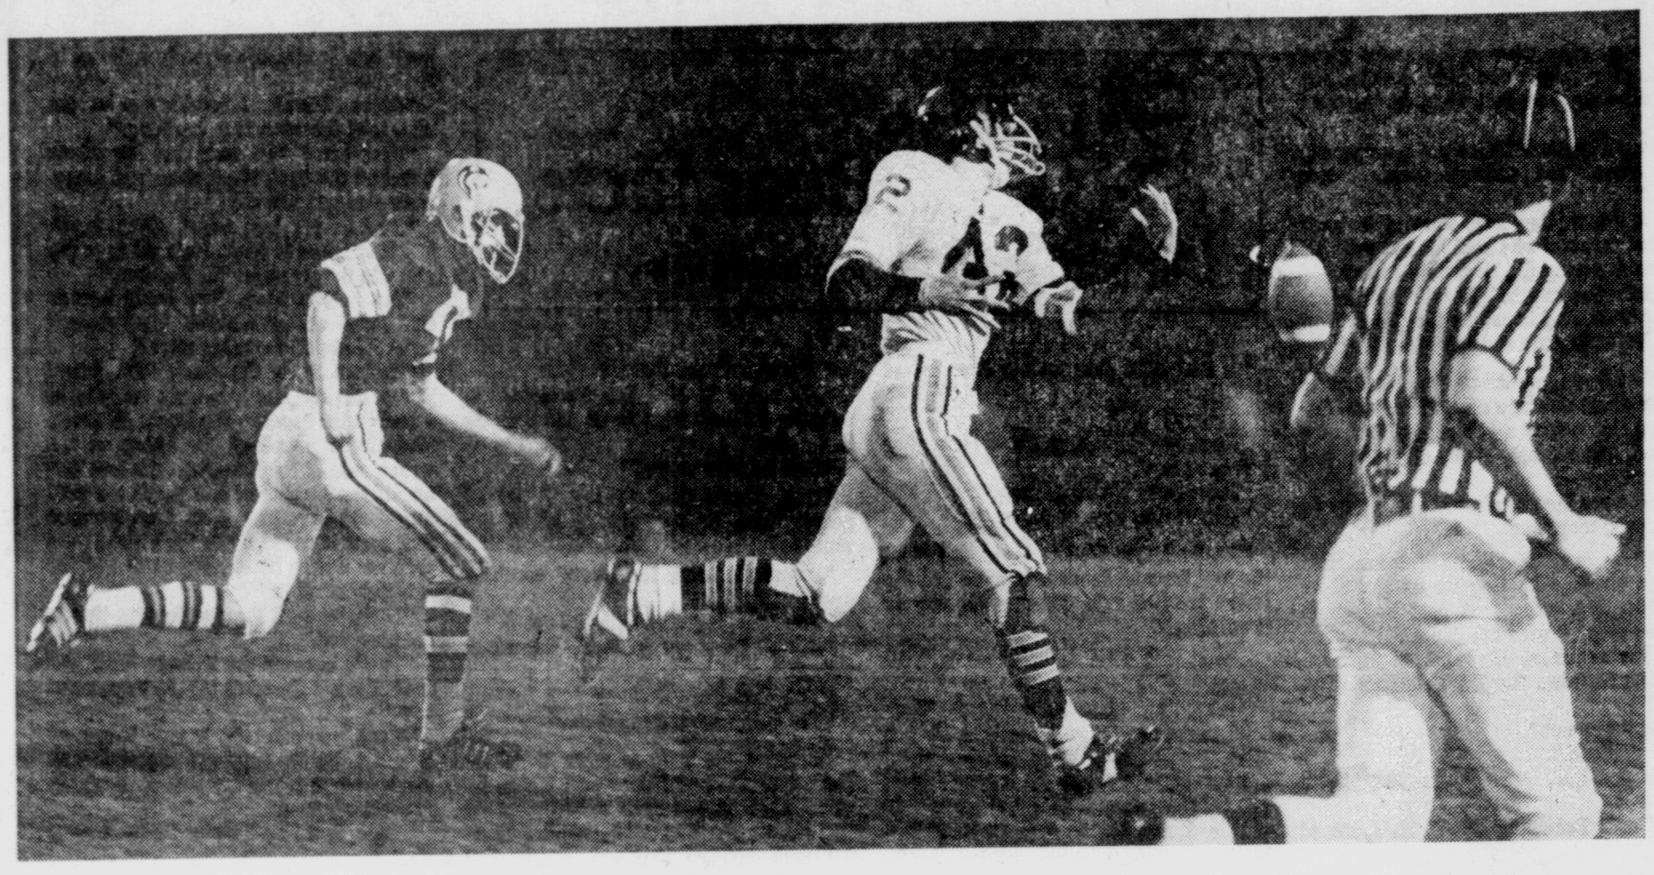

On Oct. 26-27 the North Suburban Sports Car Club will be presenting the Enduro, two full days of road racing at the Blackhawk Farms Raceway in Rockton, Illinois.

There will be six one hour races, plus 12, twenty minute practice sessions. Trophies will be awarded to at least half of every class. Pit stops will be mandatory.

Being the last race of the year, drivers and crew members will be pulling out all the stops to insure a win, knowing they have all winter to rebuild for next year.

This will be the seventh year NSSCC has run the Enduro. It is by far the biggest weekend of racing anywhere in the midwest. Not only the biggest race of the year it is also the least expensive to enter.

Driver registrar is Sue Jecmen, 5700 W. 35th St., Apt. 8, Cicero, Ill. (312) 656-0751. For further information contact Sue or race chairman Al Lynch, 2716 N. Normandy, Chicago, at 889-1104.

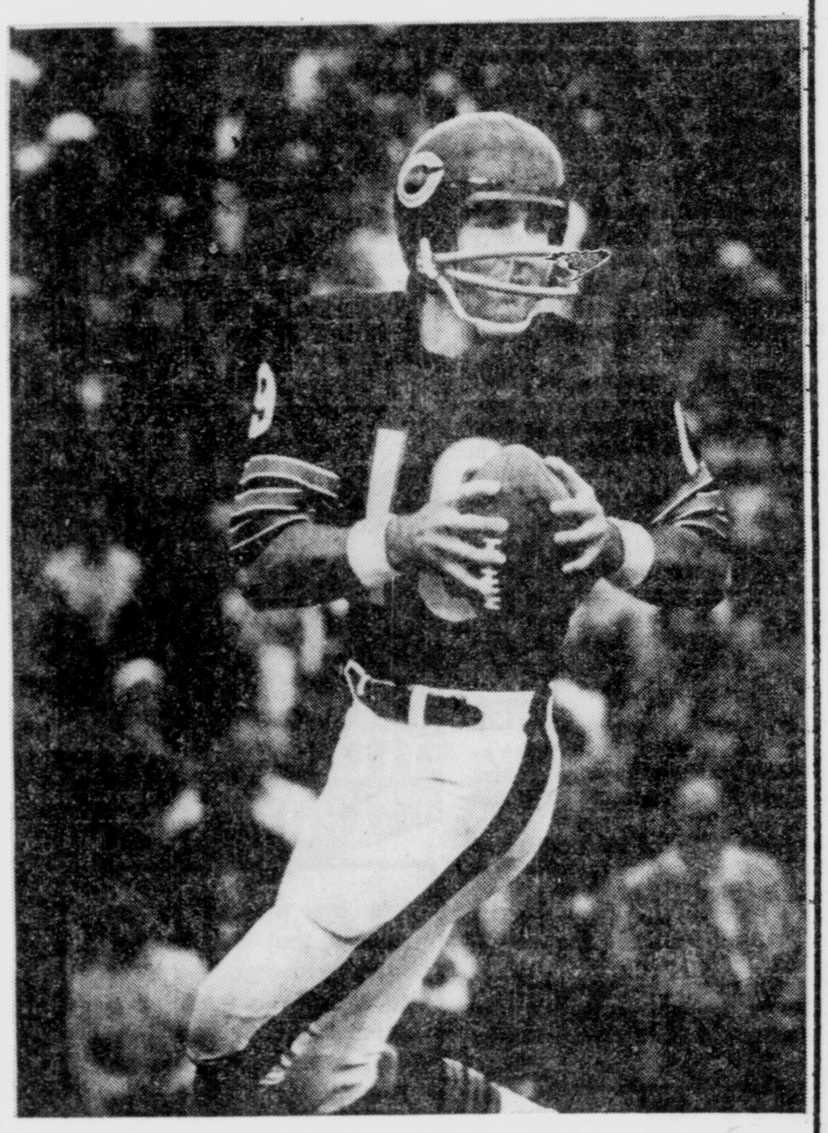

PASSED UP CHANCE. A Buffalo Grove pass falls just out of the grasp of receiver John Arendall (42) at Hersey Friday evening. Arendall came up with a shocking 90-yard kickoff return on the first play of the game and might have notched a second touchdown here, but both defenses were generally stingy in a narrow 14-13 win by the Huskies that allowed them to remain undefeated in conference play. Baby Bear learns the facts of life

The Bear facts

by the Masked Bear

"Papa, papa when is this game going to be over so you can finish reading me 'Goldilocks.' You quit right at the best part."

"Pay attention. Those are your people out there. The Chicago Bears, bless 'em."

"How come they keep showing pictures of that fat man who held his hat over his stomach during the National Anthem."

"He's the coach. He tells the Bears what to do. And hopefully they do it. Now quit bothering me and pay attention."

"Now Papa, you know the child has to learn about us some day. There's no disgrace in being a Chicago Bear. Go ahead, honey, ask Papa anything you want."

"Who are the guys in red beating up on that poor man".

"Those are the Atlanta Falcons. This game stresses beating up on the other people. The team that gets beaten up worse usually loses the game."

"Who's winning this game."

"The Falcons. But the Bears are driving."

"Is that good."

"I think so."

"Look, that man looks like Goldilocks."

"That's Bobby Douglass. He's one of us."

"Is that little man he ran over one of us."

"I thought so."

"Now they're taking Bobby out after just one play."

"Count your blessings dear."

"Why is that man so happy."

"That's Mirro Roder. He just kicked the ball through those two poles and the Bears are tied now. That means nobody is winning."

"What happens if time runs out while they're tied."

"Then they play an overtime. They used to just end the game in a tie but nobody was happy. The coaches stood around after the game talking about kissing their sisters. I think the new rule was instituted by the sportswriters' lobby."

"Who's that man there."

"His name is Mr. Van Brocklin. He tells the Falcons what to do and they do it. Or else."

"Isn't he ever wrong."

"Well, that's hard to say. A lot of people think he is wrong a lot of the time."

"Do people think the Bears' coach is ever wrong."

"Yes dear. It comes with the ticket."

"Did all those people sitting there buy tickets."

"Yes, dear."

"Then why are they so quiet."

"Because the Falcons were ahead by ten points and now they aren't ahead by anything. Plus it's such a boring game I'm almost ready to fall asleep."

"Don't you go to sleep, Papa. You know how long it takes you to wake up in the winter."

"Relax, Mama. I wouldn't miss the ending of this game for anything."

"How come that man has his whole name on the back of his short and everybody else just has their last."

"That is his last name. Mike-Mayer. His first name is Nick. He's going to try and win the game for the Falcons."

"But he's so tiny. How could he win the game all by himself. That doesn't seem fair to all those big guys."

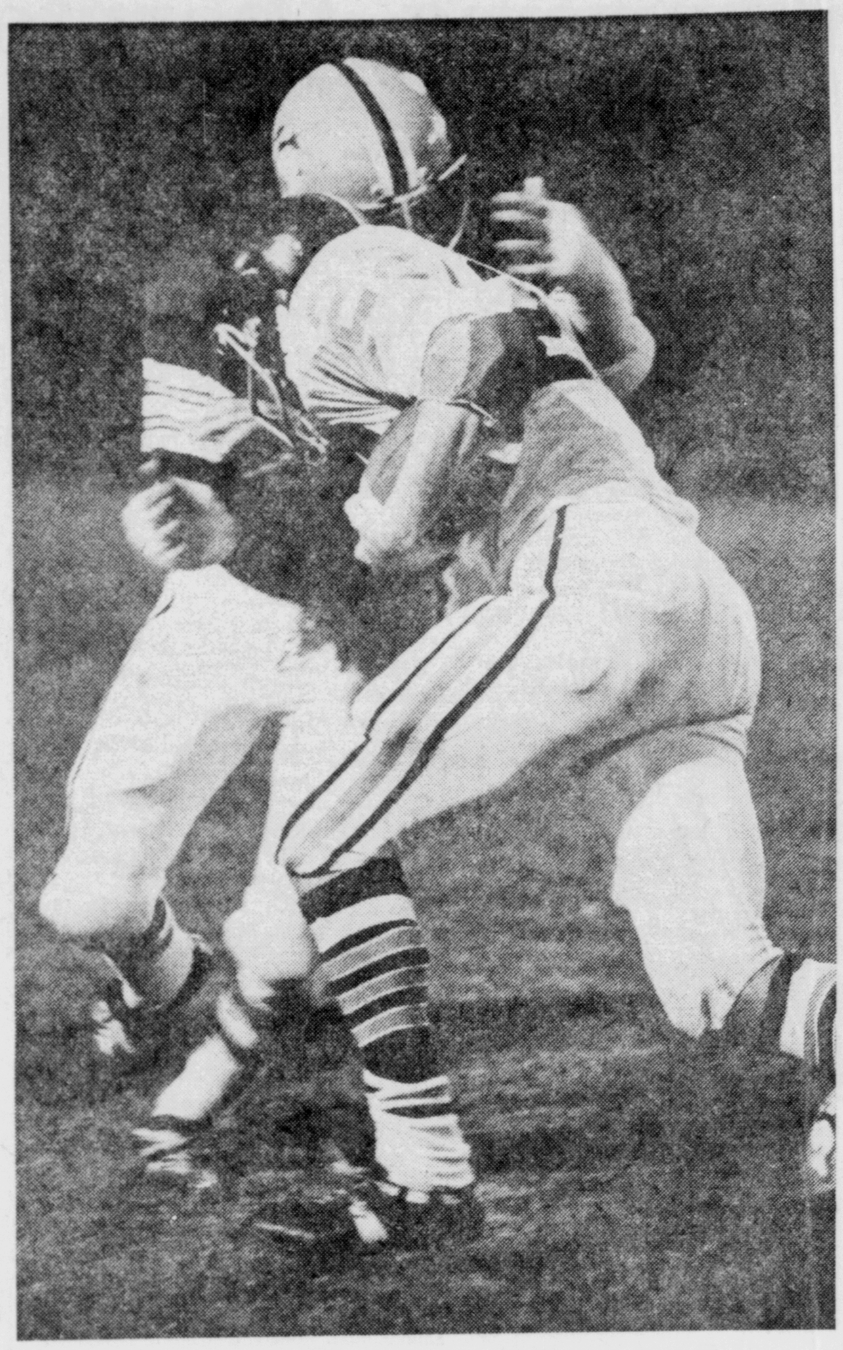

"He has to do the same thing Mirro Roder did for our side only he gets to stand closer because the Bears let them. They were penalized for being on the wrong side of the line when the ball was hiked. But instead of five yards the penalty could have been a lot more because that Bear knocked down the Falcon pass receiver before he is allowed to and the refs didn't call it."

"Look, now all the people with tickets are cheering."

"That's because the Falcons have won 13-10, dear. I wouldn't talk to Papa right now."

"Yeah, you can talk, Mama. You were a UCLA Bruin before I married you. You've never taken my side of the family seriously."

"Papa, can I be a Falcon when I grow up."

BULLDOZING BEN. Buffalo Grove's Ben Orcutt drives into a Hersey defender with limited success. The Bison sophomore was the game's leading rusher, but his 60 yards gained exemplified the tautness of both defenses in an exciting 14-13 Huskie triumph. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Pardee, Reamon deserve top honors

The Fire log

by Sparky O'Leary

Stick yourself into this quagmire and slosh around.

You come pounding through the office door one bright Monday morning and discover the company has folded. At least, they've postponed this week and might reschedule it later.

The news alarms few employes because there haven't been any paychecks for six weeks. Also, the lights no longer work on a regular basis and water has disappeared from all the toilets.

But chins up, people. Those salaries you're not getting have been "guaranteed" by the home office, some 3,000 miles away.

And don't get another job because new money will likely bring the company to life next year. However, it might be in a different city.

Essentially, that's the dilemma faced by young men who no longer play for Detroit and Jacksonville in the turbulent, always unpredictable World Football League.

Those teams have been removed from the WFL's last five games. Early last week, it was thought a common draft would reapportion Detroit and Jacksonville players to the remaining 10 teams.

There even seemed some chance of saving Jacksonville which has enjoyed good attendance and ought to be a fine sports market. Unfortunately, stupid mismanagement of funds has run the Sharks down the World drain.

Former All-Pro linebacker Dick Butkus, carrying around a certified check worth nearly $400,000, was told he needed a larger down payment before gaining control of Jacksonville. There has never been even that much chance of saving Detroit.

However, WFL commissioner Gary Davidson insists potential investors have money that could bring those franchises back to the World next year, possibly in different cities.

My comment: I doubt the Detroit and Jacksonville players give a damn about their clubs or the World Football League. Their contracts are worthless. Davidson looks ridiculous with comments about keeping the teams intact for next year. Who's he kidding? Certainly not the players.

Sparky's early line on post-season honors. I support Florida's Jack Pardee as Coach-of-the-Year and his fine running back, Tommy Reamon, as Most Valuable Player.

Like Jacksonville and Detroit, the paychecks have been few and far between at Florida. But Pardee has kept the Blazers atop the Eastern division with an 11-4 record, two notches ahead of runner-up Charlotte.

Pardee has done one heckuva job, especially in assembling possibly the league's best overall defense. His lessons were learned well as a player and coach under George Allen. Don't be surprised if Pardee lands back in the National Football League, but this time as a head coach.

Some thoughts on Tommy Reamon, brother of Chicago Fire injured defensive back and kick returner Charlie Reaman: In three games against Chicago, Tommy has totalled 400 yards, scored two touchdowns and passed for another. He's been ranked among the WFL's leading rushers all season.

Last week in Soldier Field, Reamon was responsible for two plays that broke the Fire's back in a 45-17 loss. He threw a 60-yard halfback option touchdown pass to Matt Maslowski that gave Florida a 22-3 lead with 11:27 remaining.

Reamon's 14-yard gain around right end, on fourth and one at Chicago's 15, set up the Blazers only first half points as Florida took an 8-3 lead at intermission.

The Fire could have both Reamon brothers, because they once cut Tommy. And he's made them pay dearly.

A six-team playoff has been announced but I'll predict Chicago doesn't qualify. It'll be the three division winners plus three wildcard teams holding the next best records.

Essentially, there are only two wildcard spots for grabs since Memphis (13-2) and Birmingham (12-3) will qualify from the Central division.

Chicago (7-8), The Hawaiians (6-9), Charlotte (9-6) and Philadelphia (6-9) will fill those two spots. The Fire will play all three teams down the stretch. Off their efforts of the past six weeks, can we honestly give Chicago serious consideration?

A final note: The World Football League needs a rest. An entire winter spent retooling this sports experiment can only help. That influx of NFL talent next season will hype sinking attendance. One WFL certainty: Metropolitan papers have tried hard to get it off the front pages, but Davidson won't let them succeed!
